Racer Peter Revson dies in crash

12 others injured

Two perish in hotel fire

DULUTH, Minn. (UPI) — Some jumped nude from windows. Others were snatched from smoke filled perches by firemen. The lucky ones were away.

Two persons were dead and two more remained in critical condition. At least 10 others, including two firemen, were injured.

"It was a tragedy, but it could have been worse," said policewoman Beverly Young early today. "Everyone pitched in to help."

Witnesses said an explosion rocked the Crossroads Inn Motor Hotel late Thursday before a fire raced through the three-story brick building remodeled five years ago.

Miss Young, who assisted refugees from the fire, said the hotel had 25 residents and all were accounted for early today.

"I think we have them all now," said an exhausted assistant fire chief Robert O'Rourke. "We might find more dead, but I doubt it."

Ten of Duluth's 12 engine companies responded to the blaze, and firemen, braving 15-degree temperatures coupled with a high wind, had the fire under control in less than two hours.

"It was really bad," said Patricia Carlson, 19, a nearby pizza parlor waitress. "My boss, Nick, gave a couple of guys pairs of pants. Some had blankets, some had overcoats. Some didn't have anything on."

The motel had facilities for both transient and permanent residents. A group of young tourists from Thunder Bay across the border in Canada were among the guests.

"One family lost everything," said Miss Young. "We had to get a new set of car keys made for them. The Salvation Army gave them some money and our office called the U.S. Customs Bureau to ensure they could get back into Canada without passports."

"They said all they wanted to do was to get back home," she added. "Everyone else is staying either with relatives or in temporary quarters."

Investigators from the state Fire Warden's office were to return to the scene today in an effort to determine a cause for the blaze. It was the second fatal fire for this Great Lakes port city within two weeks.

"People were hanging from windows," said a policeman. "The place really went up fast."

O'Rourke said the body of Olaf Johnsen, 88, was found in a room on the north end of the third floor. A woman identified as Rosemary Stoneburner, in her early 20s, was found dead in a room near the center of the third floor, where a part of the roof had collapsed.

Police said both victims were from Duluth.

JUST WOULDN'T STOP

Donald Gallian, 22, of Seattle, contemplates what went wrong after the light plane he was piloting nosedived into the Sammamish River south of Woodinville, Wash. He was trying to land the craft in a nearby field, but told officials that the plane wouldn't stop, once it got on the ground. The student pilot swam to shore and wasn't injured.

Cosmetic heir had pole at OMS in 1973

JOHANNESBURG (UPI) — American millionaire racing driver Peter Revson, one of the heirs to the Revlon cosmetics empire, crashed during practice for the South African Grand Prix and died enroute to a hospital Friday, track officials said.

Revson sat on the pole at the fourth annual California 500 at Ontario Motor Speedway in 1973, averaging 200.089 in qualifying.

He holds the record at OMS for being the pole-sitter with the quickest average. He was one of three drivers who have surpassed the 200-mile-an-hour barrier at the Ontario Speedway.

The Revlon heir had his best finish in the Indianapolis 500 in 1971, when he claimed second place behind Al Unser.

Revson did not drive in the most recent California 500, held March 10, because of a conflict with his Grand Prix schedule.

Revson died enroute to hospital after the crash on the Kyalami Circuit near Johannesburg

Track witnesses said Revson's car went out of control and burst into flames as it left the track.

Revson, 35, was pulled from the burning wreck by track marshals using fire extinguishers to beat back the flames, witnesses said.

Revson had switched earlier this year from the Yardley-McLaren team on which he won the British Grand Prix last year and replaced Graham Hill as No. 1 driver for the Northampton-based Shadow team.

Revson, 35, had money, style, adulation and international racing titles from 14 years on the track.

Court rejects appeals

House panel will get jury report

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The grand jury review of President Nixon's role in the Watergate coverup must go to the House committee that may say the President should be impeached, a U.S. Appeals Court ruled.

In a 5-1 decision Thursday, the court swatted aside appeals by attorneys for three of the seven Watergate defendants seeking a stay of U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica's ruling Monday that the House Judiciary Committee had to see the material.

The appeals court gave attorneys for H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman —two of Nixon's former closest aides —and Gordon Strachan until 5 p.m. Monday to seek help from the U.S. Supreme Court.

But John J. Wilson and Frank M. Strickler, attorneys for Haldeman and Ehrlichman, said they believed there would not be any more appeals.

"My thoughts are this is the end of the line," Strickler said. "I think we've exhausted all reasonable avenues for review. That's my gut feeling, and my gut feelings almost never change."

Wilson, usually an ebullient man, let Strickler do the talking. "If we take any action, it won't be before Monday," he said.

Bray said he would give the matter "careful review."

If it was the end of the line, the final leg of the trip began Monday when Sirica ordered that a report and accompanying materials gathered by the grand jury which indicted the seven Watergate defendants should go to the House Judiciary Committee considering the impeachment of Nixon.

Sirica gave defense attorneys a two-day stay to seek an appeal, then granted another 24-hour stay—bringing his deadline to 4 p.m. Thursday. The appeals court said Wednesday it would hear arguments 5 ½ hours before, at 10:30 a.m. EDT.

Pomona, MSAC seek $1 million to hire trainees

By BOB NAGEY
P-B Staff Writer

The City of Pomona and Mt. San Antonio College today asked the federal government for a total of $1 million to hire 115 trainees for work under a new version of the Public Employment Program.

The present program under the Emergency Employment Act is to be phased out in June. But under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act, passed by Congress in late 1973, PEP is kept alive and well with a healthy allotment. In this area, Los Angeles County becomes the prime sponsor.

The two requests were submitted to the county separately. Pomona is asking for a total of $730,000 to finance 84 positions, including trainees and skilled workers to be used in the work of the Valley Association of Cities.

Mt. San Antonio College is requesting $314,000 for 31 positions in maintenance and office work.

Although most of the requests are directed at hiring veterans and the economically disadvantaged for on-the-job training, some of the new employes will come from the ranks of the skilled.

Joseph Korpsak, Pomona assistant city administrator, said the act allows hiring skilled people if they are either unemployed or under employed. He said the act permits a salary range of up to $10,000 a year.

The program pays 100 per cent of the cost of training. There is a provision that if the trainees work out on the job they should be hired permanently as vacancies occur.

Both Korpsak and James Simpson, vice president in charge on business affairs at MSAC, agreed that the PEP project has worked out well during the past three years.

Of the 35 persons hired by the city only 10 or 15 are still in training; the rest are on permanent status, Korpsak said. Simpson said a large portion of those hired by the college also have worked out well.

"We think it's a good program," Simpson told the MSAC board of trustees Thursday night. "Not only does it give us the additional help we need, it also provides us with a pool from which we can hire experienced help from time to time."

The new program goes into effect in April, but the funding does not start until July 1.

Neither Simpson nor Korpsak was sure that their requests would be granted in full. But both expressed optimism for substantial grants.

Korpsak's request includes a proposal for the newly formed Valley Association of Cities, which has been set up to deal primarily with abandoned housing in the Pomona Valley.

Cons release 4 guards after 10-hour seizure

NEW YORK (UPI) — Four prison guards who had been held at gunpoint by three inmates at the Federal House of Detention throughout the night, were freed today, officials announced. All were apparently unharmed.

The guards were released more than 10 hours after they were seized by the three prisoners awaiting trial on bank robbery charges.

Seven guards were held hostage by the prisoners at first, but three managed to escape.

The drama ended when the attorneys for the prisoners were called in to join prison chaplains and federal officials in negotiations on the second floor of the gloomy old building in lower Manhattan.

The prisoners were identified as Ernest Moore, John Boston and Spencer Chin.

Gustav Weiss and David McCarthy, attorneys for the prisoners, arrived at the prison early this morning and talked to their clients by telephone from the first floor before being allowed to go upstairs to talk with their clients.

After several hours, one attorney brought down the two guns with which the trio of prisoners had been armed. Shortly after, the four guards were released, tired but unharmed.

Moore, Boston and Chin were taken to another section of the prison after their surrender for questioning by the FBI. He said they would be transferred in the near future to another prison.

Warden Louis J. Gengler said no promises had been made to the three men. He said all three had criticized the judicial system.

Gengler said none of the other 376 inmates in the institution were involved. The other inmates followed their usual routines, using the recreation hall and library then going to their cells at the regular bedtime.

Army volunteer plan working, group told

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The U.S. Army is "doing better" under the all-volunteer program, Army Secretary Howard Callaway said Thursday, complaining he is having trouble convincing some people.

"The Army's on board, it's more disciplined, it's a better Army," he told a news conference before speaking to the Los Angeles World Affairs Council.

Sir Douglas-Home quitting politics

LONDON (UPI) — Sir Alec Douglas-Home, prime minister in 1963-64 and foreign secretary in the last Conservative party government from 1970-74, announced today he is quitting politics.

Douglas-Home, 70 last July, informed the Conservative Party organization in the Kinross district of Scotland, where he has been member of parliament for 11 years, that he will not run again in the next general election.

He asked the local leaders to start at once seeking a candidate to succeed him.

Expert on aging says young persons worry more of dying than parents

HOUSTON (UPI) — An expert on old age says younger persons are more worried about dying than their aging parents.

Dr. Roy Varner, a psychiatrist with the Texas Research Institute of Mental Sciences, said Thursday "younger people view life as a fatal illness" and are unable to accept the reality of death.

"Most younger people, between the ages of 30 and 60, seem to feel that the major emotional concerns of later life have to do with the fact that you are going to die."

Varner is a geriatric researcher who treats the aged exclusively. He said some people who bring elderly parents for treatment are hostile when there is no encouragement given to extending the life of an aged person.

He said some children try to reinforce their own insecurity by trying alternative methods of saving their parents.

"A number of adult children come in with a parent on all kinds of crazy vitamin and health food regimens, all concealing fantasies that they might prevent aging," he said.

Elderly persons actually worry more about other things than death, he said.

"The fear of death is not the main thing we see. Money, pain, lonliness —the usual aspects of human misery. A number of females have a panicky fear that maybe their husbands will die. It's not so much the loss, but the lonliness that would occur."

Varner said the latest research reveals that some elderly persons fear death because life has been unfulfilling or cruel or because death means they won't have a chance to correct certain wrongs committed either by them or upon them.

Public's help asked in identifying murder victim

SAN DIMAS — Sheriff's homicide investigators today asked help from the public in their attempt to identify the body of an apparent murder victim found burning here Wednesday morning.

Lt. David Hagthrop, who heads the investigation, said authorities have received many queries concerning missing persons but none has led to the identification of the victim now referred to as a John Doe.

An autopsy was performed on the remains Thursday by coroner's surgeons. Hagthrop declined to reveal, however, what caused the victim's death.

The flaming body was found about 50 feet off Gladstone Street on a grassy knoll overlooking a chicken ranch. It was charred from the waist up, making identification by features impossible. The flames had burned off all the clothing, except a pair of brown socks, but fragments of material were recovered making it possible to determine what the victim had worn, Hagthrop said.

He said the victim probably was a male Caucasian who could have ranged from 23 to 31. There is a remote chance, Hagthrop said, that he was a light-skinned Negro.

The victim had tight, curly brown or black hair, and a full beard and mustache. He was 5 feet 8 and weighed 180 pounds. Fragments of clothing indicated that he wore metallic-green trousers, a beige or white shirt, a white T-shirt and white shorts.

Remains of a white terrycloth towel were found on the body.

Hagthrop said he doubts there is a connection between the John Doe homicide and the stabbing death the day before of a Corona man.

In the latter case, the body of J. W. Clements, 49, was found in the Live Oak Canyon area near La Verne. He had been stabbed to death. Hagthrop said, however, that the motive for the John Doe killing and any connection with that of Clements must await identification of the latest victim.

Gasless Sundays are a thing of the past

Fuel truckers strike averted

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — After the months of bad news for motorists, here's some good news for those in Southern California: The never-on-Sunday gasoline drought is over, and a strike by Teamsters who drive gasoline tankers has been averted.

Gasoline still will not be plentiful in Southern California this weekend, but there will be a dramatic increase in the number of stations open, particularly on Sunday, according to state energy officials, oil companies and the Automobile Club of Southern California.

About 16 per cent of the gasoline stations in the area plan to be open this Sunday, compared to less than one per cent for the past several weeks, according to the auto club. At least 40 stations of the 337 surveyed will be open at least part of the day on Sunday, the auto club said.

Major oil companies have said they will keep company owned stations—about 10 per cent of the total--open Sunday in response to an appeal from state energy officials.

The officials pointed out that the Sunday closings threw a big monkey wrench in the odd-even gas sales plan. Every weekend, half the motorists in affected areas—more than 30 per cent of the state total—were unable to buy gasoline between Friday and Tuesday, through missing their turn on Sunday.

The auto club said the number of stations open on Saturday will rise from 60 per cent last week to 78 per cent this week.

In outlying areas, where more stations are usually open, 88 per cent of the stations plan to be open Saturday, and 38 per cent Sunday.

Meanwhile, Union Oil Co. reported it had reached agreement on a new three-year contract with the Teamsters Union drivers who haul gasoline from refineries to service stations. It had been feared that a strike would further reduce the gasoline available.

The drivers, who now earn $5.90 an hour, won a $1.55 raise over the next three years.

The agreement averted an overall industry confrontation.

Ray Frankowski, head of Teamster Local 986, said the agreement with Union Oil was reached after a two and one-half hour bargaining session and predicted that Exxon and Phillips would go along with the same contract.

The union local represents some 400 drivers at ARCO, Union, Exxon, Mobil and Phillips. The remainder are mechanics and warehousemen.

County gasoline center officials reported Thursday there will be some delay in issuing the "C" stickers identifying vehicles as exempt from the odd-even restrictions.

The center is mailing 250,000 applications to service stations, county fire department and sheriff substations, libraries, post offices and police stations "but most may not get them until Monday," said Richard Dixon, center coordinator.

County Chief Administrative Officer Arthur G. Will estimated the program will cost about $300,000 but the county is charging $5 per sticker in hopes of paying the bill. If there is a profit, a portion of the money will be refunded, he said.

Those eligible to apply for a sticker must sign an affidavit swearing, under penalty of perjury, that they use their vehicles for commercial, medical or emergency services, averaging at least 100 miles per day for a month, and could not function within the limits of the odd-even plan.

County Supervisor James Hayes said the executive committee of the Southern California Association of Governments voted unanimous support to the sticker program Thursday. The supervisors of the five other member counties — Orange, Ventura, San Bernardino, Riverside and Imperial — will consider adopting the "C" sticker plan in their counties next week.

Where Princess Anne was to be held

Raid on kidnap 'hideout'

LONDON (UPI) — Police have raided a secluded country house they believe may have been planned as a secret hideout for Princess Anne had the attempt to kidnap her been successful, police sources said today.

The house is located at Fleet, about 30 miles south west of London and 10 miles from Anne's home near Sandhurst Military Academy, police said.

Police sources said the house was raided at 5 a.m. (midnight EDT) Thursday, nine hours after an unsuccessful gun attack and kidnaping attempt against the princess and her husband Capt. Mark Phillips on London's broad Mall thoroughfare late Wednesday.

The princess and her husband were unhurt. But her chauffeur, her bodyguard, a uniformed policeman and a newsman were wounded.

Police raided the house one hour after Ian Ball, 26, was charged at London's Cannon Row police station with the attempted murder of Anne's bodyguard, Inspector James Beaton.

Police said detectives who broke into the house found no food or other preparations for a long stay. They said the house belongs to a doctor and was rented recently by a man in his middle twenties.

Ronald Hawley, who lives next door, said "Nobody really knew him. He did not speak to anybody. I think we only saw him twice during the couple of weeks he was here."

Mrs. Shirley Leggett, another neighbor, said "He was a very odd fellow—not interested in making contact with us or talking to any of the neighbors."

Police said the house was raided as a result of information given by a man they were interrogating. They refused to say whether the man was Ian Ball.

Police said Ball now is known to have been a man of many names. They said among the names he had used were Ian or Anthony Stewart, John Williams and Van der Fluis.

Armed police early today moved into and surrounded the village of Great Somerford, Capt. Phillips' home village, where he and Anne were to receive a wedding gift from the villagers later today.

They were married in London's Westminster Abbey Nov. 14.

The London Evening Standard said the couple left their home at Sandhurst Military Academy late Thursday and arrived Secretly at Great Somerford early today.

UAW chief urges curbs on imports

WASHINGTON (UPI) — United Auto Workers Union President Leonard Woodcock today called for temporary restrictions on the imports of cars until September, 1975.

Appearing before the Senate Finance Committee holding hearings on the trade reform act, Woodcock said the United States has the lowest automobile tariff rate in the world—3 per cent.

He suggested the United States match the 11 per cent rate of the European Common Market nations and make it effective with the 1976 models.

Woodcock opposed a House-passed bill, saying it was better than the proposal made by the administration, but still was deficient from labor's point of view.

"We find this trade package unacceptable," Woodcock told the committee.

"I am proposing a specific type of import relief designed to cushion the effect of the very serious events which have disrupted our economy and that of most western nations since my statement last year.

"For UAW members in particular, the energy shortage has brought about a situation more disastrous than anything since the great depression. Consumer demand has shifted suddenly and radically from the traditional standard automobile to a smaller, more economical car of the type produced in huge quantities in Europe and Asia."

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., said there was "no question that the small car is not as safe (as larger cars). We're killing people through the energy crisis."

Hartke said the United States has been more generous toward other countries than any other country in the world and has a greater power to retaliate.

"I'd like to see the United States more fair with itself once in a while," Hartke said.

"It's high time other members of Congress realize that it's the working people of this country who are paying the taxes.

Ontario youth at scene of burning death tells story

ONTARIO — A 17-year-old Ontario youth testified Thursday that Rodney Almaguer, 14, on the evening he suffered fatal burns in a garage fire on Oct. 26, 1973, cried, "Why did you burn me, Alex . . . Look at my hands."

The witness, Robert Salaz, recalled young Almaguer's statement in the trial of Alexander Jesse Ruiz, 23, of 13122 Roswell Ave., Chino, and Steve Edmund Lopez, 20, of 1448 Jacaranda St., Chino, accused of burning the Almaguer youth of 13263 Fourth St., Chino in a restroom of the White Garage, 13216 Fifth St. The Almaguer youth died less than three weeks after the fire, of second and third degree burns.

Salaz told the West Valley Superior Court jury he entered the garage and saw Rodney standing by a car next to the defendant Alex Ruiz. Salaz said Rodney was crying and looking at his burned hands, while Ruiz was attempting to calm him.

Salaz said that Rodney said, "Why did you burn me Alex . . . Look at my hands," several times while he was there.

Another witness, Dr. John Slyaback, Rodney's attending physician at Loma Linda Community Hospital, told the jury that when the burned youth arrived at the hospital he was listed in "fair" condition and said his chances for recovering from his burns were more than 50-50.

The doctor said about three or four days before the youth died, he began losing ground to infection. The day before the youth died the doctor said he developed pnuemo-thoraxis, or a collapse of the lungs. He was treated for the complication, but Dr. Slayback said he was unable to revive him after he went into a cardiac arrest.

The trial was recessed until Monday.

Valley dairy, market robbed

Two armed robberies within 40 minutes Thursday night were reported at the Scott Brothers Dairy, 12000 S. East End Ave., Pomona, and the Circle K Market at 5093 Mission Blvd., Montclair.

The robbery at the Scott Brothers Dairy occurred at 8:14 p.m. by dairyman David E. Murphy. Murphy told West End sheriff's deputies that a man in his 20's with a thin brown mustache walked to the drive-in dairy window and asked for a pack of cigarettes. Murphy got the cigarettes and the man suddenly sprayed him with some type of liquid, believed to be dog repellant. Murphy said the liquid burned his face and eyes. The man then produced a .22 caliber pistol and ordered him to open the register and place all the money in a paper bag.

Murphy further described the gunman as a Caucasian wearing a red and blue watch cap, blue jeans and a pair of black work shoes. Murphy said the gunman escaped on foot with a small amount of cash.

Dallas E. Rouse, a clerk at the Circle K Market, called sheriff's deputies 38 minutes later to report that he had been robbed by two men, one armed with a .38 caliber revolver.

Rouse told deputies the two men, both Caucasians 18 to 20, entered the front door of the store. One of the men attracted his attention while the other walked behind him and placed the revolver in his back. The other man walked over to the cash register, opened it and removed a small amount of cash. The gunman then told Rouse to lie on the floor and the pair escaped.

Deputies said the investigation into the robberies continues.

Five die in wind storms in South

By United Press International

Savage weather on the first full day of spring left five dead in violent wind storms in the South followed by snow and cold in much of the rest of the nation today.

Snow fell from the central Appalachians to northern New England, with as much as eight inches accumulating in some places. Temperatures were below normal everywhere east of the Rockies except for the extreme Southeast.

The first full day of spring dumped two inches of rain on New York City Thursday, part of a national weather picture that triggered the tornadoes and wind storms which killed five persons and injured at least 50.

At Natchitoches, La., where tornadoes killed two persons and injured 18, Mayor W. Ray Scott said the twisters were accompanied by the most spectacular display of lightning he ever witnessed—and, then, it was "totally still, totally quiet."

Winds up to 100 miles per hour swept through Georgia, killing three persons. The injured included several children who were inside an apartment building at Douglasville, near Atlanta, when it collapsed.

Shooting victim in intensive care

POMONA — Deborah Yang, 21-year-old clerk who was shot during a holdup attempt at the 7-11 Market at 1550 Murchison Ave. Feb. 25, has been returned to the intensive care unit of Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

Miss Yang's condition today was termed fair. She is under treatment for a gunshot wound near her heart.

The victim was shot by one of two young men who entered the store, demanded money and fired as she prepared to open the cash register. There have been no arrests in the case.

But it's another record jump

Lower beef prices hold down overall food hikes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The annual cost of a typical family food market basket jumped $52 to another new record of $1,732 in February, government reports indicate.

An administration food economist predicted a further increase may be shown when figures for March are gathered. But he said declines in beef prices this month probably will hold the overall food rise to a slower pace than reported for February.

The February market basket, rising for the 4th straight month and setting a new record for the second consecutive month, 3-1 per cent above the January annual estimate of $1,680. It was $323, or 22.9 per cent, above the annual market basket cost of $1,409 in February, 1973.

The market basket represents the cost of a selection of U.S.farm-produced foods needed to feed a hypothetical average "household" of 3.2 persons for a year. Agriculture Department economists, who originated the basket price series, stress that it does not show what any individual or average family actually spends on food but does serve as a reliable thermometer measuring ups and downs in food prices.

Among other things, the market basket does not specifically match any individual family's purchasing patterns because it is restricted to measuring changes in U.S. farm-produced foods. This means it omits some items like seafoods and coffee.

The Agriculture Department is preparing to issue soon its monthly market basket report showing how much of the January-to-February 3.1 per cent increase was due to higher farm prices and how much may have been due to changes in marketing costs. The total retail cost of the February basket was calculated independently by newsmen using a February food price index published Thursday as part of the Labor Department's Consumer Price Index.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, who says about two-thirds of the 12 per cent gain in food prices predicted by his Department for 1974 is already behind us, added Thursday that the February food increase was inflated by livestock prices.

"This (February figure) comes at a time when we had high livestock prices due to government interference in the market last year," he said, noting that the Consumer Price Index report showed retail beef prices up 7.5 per cent from January.

"But now prices have dropped precipitously and if you take that index again today you'd see a precipitous decline," Butz told a Senate subcommittee.

The market basket cost, which is calculated monthly on an annual-rate basis, reached what was a record of $1,653 last August.

Garden State Co. employe is injured

POMONA — A forklift driver suffered a head injury late Thursday morning in an accident at Garden State Paper Co., 2205 W. Mt. Vernon Ave.

James A. De Graff, 37, of 1004 E. I St., Ontario, struck his head inside the cab when the vehicle hit a curb while he was unloading trucks in the company parking lot. De Graff was released after treatment at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

A barrel of fun?

ALTOONA, Pa. (UPI) — James Turner, a 25-year-old self-employed businessman, said Thursday he would ride a barrel over Niagara Falls on July 4, 1976, to commemorate the United States' bicentennial. He said he also might donate any proceeds from the stunt to charity.

LOOKING FOR SOME TRACKS

This 100-ton Santa Fe locomotive is hauled by truck from the old San Bernardino County Museum in Bloomington to the new county museum under construction in Redlands where it will be on display near the main entrance. The train engine was moved the 12 miles Thursday over surface streets. It will later be joined by a caboose and water car. Also to be relocated are a World War II tank and a fighter plane. The new museum, scheduled for completion next July is seen in the background.

Walnut 8th-graders protest lack of breaks

WALNUT — About 200 eighth graders staged a mass sit-down protest Thursday at Suzanne Intermediate School in what students termed an attempt to "shape up the school."

The students began sitting on the field adjacent to the school buildings shortly after noon, and remained until 1:30 p.m. when administrators, headed by School Supt. David Brown, arrivied to break it up.

"We're going to stay here until we get our way," said Michelle Staab, one of the protest organizers.

One of the girl protesters suffered a leg injury while a photographer was taking pictures during the incident, and school officials, arriving to help her, broke up the sit-down.

"This doesn't typically happen at a junior high school," said Brown, pointing to the fact it was a rare protest.

For the most part, students were expressing disenchantment about only having a 40-minute lunch period, and no other breaks during the day. "Teachers get more breaks than we do," they said.

In a list of three demands presented to school Principal Joe Moody Thursday afternoon, protesters said they wanted longer breaks, the eighth grade graduation at night instead of during the day "when we get all sweated and hot", and the graduation dance the night before commencement rather than three days before.

Administrators said longer breaks possibly could be worked out, but the graduation could not be changed to evening. "We're trying to play down the eighth-grade graduation," said Brown, "making it more of a promotional to high school."

The graduation dance cannot be held the night before commencement because there would be a conflict with the Walnut High School graduation, scheduled that evening, Brown added.

Moody said he met with student council representatives Thursday and longer breaks can be "mechanically" worked out.

Suspect in slaying faces mental exam

POMONA — A psychiatrist was appointed Thursday to examine Ronnie Willis Michael, 27-year-old Covina man accused of murdering his estranged wife and her companion here Feb. 12.

The examination was approved by Pomona Superior Court Judge Francis J. Garvey when Michael appeared for pretrial hearing. On a motion by Michael's attorney, Deputy Public Defender Ilse Kirste, the report was ordered held confidential for the defense.

At that point, Deputy Dist. Atty. Harold Hofman moved for court appointment of a second psychiatrist, whose examination report on Michael would be available to the prosecution. Garvey took that request under advisement and scheduled the next hearing April 11. Michael is being held without bail.

The victims in the case were Connie Gail Michael, 28, and Wayne Douglas Beach, 28, who were killed in Beach's home at 1612 S. White Ave. Mrs. Michael was bludgeoned to death and Beach died of a shotgun blast. Five children, two of them belonging to the Michaels, apparently slept through the incident, authorities said.

Aerojet fire causes truck, rig damage

CHINO — A welder's torch ignited fumes from a leaking barrel of nitro-methane gas Thursday, starting a fire that caused nearly $10,000 damage to a welding truck and welding machine at the Aerojet General Ordinance Plant in the Chino Hills.

Chino firemen said the fire at no time endangered explosive bunkers in the ordnance facility. A spokesman said the fire was reported by Aerojet General at 11:35 a.m. Because of high explosive materials stored at the ordnance plant, two pumpers, a tanker, two forestry fire units and several fire department staff cars were dispatched to the scene.

When they arrived, Aerojet General's fire crew was already fighting the blaze. A large five-ton, crane-type welding truck and a welding rig were totally in flames. Firemen said the fire was contained within five minutes of their arrival.

According to the fire department spokesman, two men were using the oxygen-acetylene torch to cut a large piece of metal near a storage shed just before the fire erupted. Apparently fumes from a leaking drum of highly flammable nitromethane gas ignited spilling the liquid over the welding hoses. The welding hoses carrying oxygen and acetylene burst, spewing flames over the crane truck and the welding trailer parked about 10 feet apart. The two-man crew escaped injury in the fire.

House fire in Ontario

ONTARIO — A fire, apparently caused by an electrical short, broke out in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wruir Stepanian, 1200 S. Cucamonga Ave. here this morning causing an estimated $3,000 damage to an attic and roof.

Mrs. Stepanian told firemen she awoke about 5:20 a.m. and smelled smoke. She said she got her teen-age son and husband out of bed and went to investigate. She Stepanians discovered that the attic was on fire and called the fire department.

Firemen arrived minutes later to find flames licking out of the roof. They brought the blaze under control in 20 minutes.

Chino girl, 17, hurt in crash

POMONA — Dorian D. Long, 17, 4430 Wilson St., Chino, was injured slightly Thursday afternoon when her small auto hit the rear of a car driven by Henry H. Hawkins, 53, 1400 W. 13th St., Upland, police reported. The young woman was released after treatment at Pomona Valley Community Hospital. The accident was at Mission Boulevard west of Reservoir Street.

NOT JUST ANOTHER SCHOOL DAY — Billy Epperson, 5, eats peanut butter and jelly sandwich after coming home from school in suburban Pasadena, Texas Thursday. It was his first day back after judge ordered the school to let him return to his classes.

Welcome from classmates

Little Billy's back in school

HOUSTON (UPI) — Billy Epperson wore a silver sheriff's star pinned on the blue vest over his heart and his cowboy chaps and boots fluttered and squeeked as he scurried up to his kindergarten teacher.

"I'm back!" the 5-year-old youngster said with a smile as he took a red bandana from around his neck.

For the first time in 27 days, Billy went to class at Golden Acres Elementary School in suburban Pasadena.

And he returned with the same long hair that caused school officials to suspend him. They said his hair violated their strict grooming code because it tumbled over his ears.

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Epperson, who adopted Billy when he was 3, said they let his hair grow long to cover a birth defect—a misshapen head. To cut it short would hold him up to the ridicule of classmates, they said.

School officials said they would not Let Billy back in school until he got his hair cut. The Epperson's filed suit in federal court and U. S. District Judge Woodrow Seals—who said he wore his hair in the same "Buster Brown" style when he was a boy—ordered the district Wednesday to let Billy return to class.

His parents drove him to school Thursday morning and he came home on the school bus.

"When he got up to the school and saw his teacher, he got real excited," Mrs. Epperson said.

"He really doesn't understand what all this is," she said. The Eppersons adopted Billy when they retired from the U. S. Navy two years ago. They let his hair grow to cover the congenital birth defect that gives him an elongated head.

"Toe fact his daddy has been able to grow his hair out long means something to him," Mrs. Epperson said.

"His whole life has been oriented toward his dad because he never had one. To him it's more than just a haircut."

The Epperson's victorious suit against the Pasadena school district said Billy was wrongfully expelled and the action violated the symbolic free speech photected by the First Amendment. They said persons with physical defects have the right to lead as normal a life as possible.

The suit was filed on behalf of all minor male students who wish to wear their hair longer than the length permitted by the hair code.

Billy's 22 kindergarten classmates welcomed him back without incident — cowboy chaps, boots, vest, silver star, long hair and all.

Drug treats hardening arteries

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (UPI) — Researchers at the University of Virginia say the drug Croceten may soon be used to treat arteriosclerosis, or hardening of the arteries, a common disease which last year killed about a million persons in the United States.

Dr. John Gainer of the University's School of Engineering said Thursday he has used the drug to cure the disease in laboratory rats and rabbits. The University has patented the drug and is negotiating with drug firms to speed up development of the drug for human use, Gainer said.

"So far, there have been no harmful side effects," Fainer said. "The drug companies say it will take another six to eight years before it is ready for general use, but I believe that necessary research can be done in a year or two."

Gainer says the drug works by increasing the rate of oxygen flow to the walls of blood vessels. Although researchers started on the project in 1970, it was 1972 before they felt they had made a breakthrough..

They operated under the theory that arteriosclerosis is caused by a decrease in the rate of oxygen flow to the walls of the blood vessels, which in turn causes cholesterol to build up and constrict blood circulation, Gainer said.

"Something happens as you get older that causes the oxygen flow to slow down," Gainer said. "It's one of those things that just can't be helped. It happens to everyone. This being so, we decided the cause of it all would have to be something common to everyone, such as protein changes or blood sugar changes to something like that."

The answer, Gainer said, was to find some way to cause the oxygen in the blood to move faster and prevent cholesterol buildup. Croceten, a relatively unknown drug, met the requirements.

HAROLD HAYES

Hayes relies on work with council, league for supervisor race

MONTCLAIR — Harold Hayes believes his involvement on the Montclair City Council plus experience gained as state president of the League of California Cities will aid him if elected a San Bernardino County supervisor.

Hayes is seeking to represent the fourth supervisorial district which includes Montclair, south Ontario, Chino and part of Fontana. Voters will select their county supervisor on June 4.

"As a member of the Montclair City Council for 15 years, including eight years as mayor, I have participated in several inter-city, county, regional and state agencies, all of which provide a broad basic understanding of problems in local government," said Hayes.

"Problems of people in San Bernardino County are county-wide, and as a member of the Board of Supervisors, my concern will be to work for their best interest."

Hayes has served on numerous committees, including San Bernardino Association of Governments (SANBAG); Southern California Association of Governments (SCAG), West Valley Planning Agency, Pomona Valley West End Mayors Committee on Sub-standard Housing, National League of Cities transportation development committee, and National League of Cities.

He is also a member of the Montclair Kiwanis Club, Montclair Chamber of Commerce, San Bernardino County Farm Bureau, Moose Lodge, and honorary life member of the Monte Vista PTA.

His goals and objectives include maintaining efficient management policies of the county's fiscal affairs; upgrading community standards in urbanized areas with sound land use planning policies; and encouraging inter-governmental relationship with cities and counties and other levels of government to retain the home rule concept of decision making at the local level.

900 service stations will be open Sunday

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — More than 900 service stations should be open Sundays beginning this weekend.

At least that's what Gov. Ronald Reagan said the major oil companies told him Thursday.

He said the firms were responding to his request in an "excellent" manner.

Companies which notified the governor they will open their stations and the number to be open include:

Standard, 235; Phillips, 200; Arco, 36; Gulf, 66; Douglas, 62; Mobil, 51; Shell, 81; Time, 40; Save Mor, 75; and Union, 5.

Representatives of Exxon told the governor that an unknown number of their stations would be open.

Texaco officials said they were encouraging their franchise dealers to follow suit.

Reagan said he hopes the Sunday openings will not become an excuse for motorists to waste fuel. He said gasoline should still be conserved.

MENINGITIS OUTBREAK FEARED

KING CITY, Mo. (UPI) — A team of physicians moved into this small northwest Missouri town to distribute medication it hopes will stem a possible outbreak of meningitis.

A 13-year-old girl died Wednesday and the examining physician, Dr. Robert Stuber, reported the death "was definitely meningitis, and definitely highly contageous."

There have been five cases of the disease in Kansas City in the past year. King said he suspected a carrier lives in the town.

Siberia an unattractive offer, so Russian dissident went West

WIENERNEUSTADT, Austria — (UPI) Russian dis-Austria (UPI) — Russian dissident Pavel Livtinov, who said Soviet secret police expelled him after telling him to choose between Siberia and the West, traveled to Rome Thursday en route to the United States.

"They told me: you had better go West or you will have to go East," said the 33-year-old Litvinov, whose grandfather Maxim was the late Josef V. Stalin's foreign minister.

Because of the warning, Litvinov said, he had decided to resettle in the United States.

"Now I am out of danger, but many of my friends—(art critic Viktor) Feinberg, (biologist Vladimir) Bukovski and (former red Army General Pjotr) Grigorenko —are not," he said.

The tousle-haired, chain-smoking physicist was travelling to Rome with his wife, Maya, their four-year-old daughter, Larissa, and Dima, his wife's son from a previous marriage, aboard the Vienna-Rome express.

They arrived in Vienna from Moscow Monday and were granted immigrant visas to the United States the next day.

Litvinov said they planned to spend 10 days in Rome and a week in Amsterdam before flying to New York.

"I know my family will be happy in the United States," said Litvinov.

Across the first class train compartment his wife read a Mickey Mouse comic book to their daughter.

Litvinov was the second Soviet dissident to be given an exit visa by Soviet authorities since the expulsion last month of author Alexander I. Solzhenitsyn. Writer Vladimir Maximov left Moscow earlier this month.

Asked about the thinning ranks of dissidents in the Soviet union, Litvinov said: "There will always be people who speak their mind."

Litvinov spent four years working in a Siberian coalmine for his part in the 1968 Red Square protest against the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia.

"The KGB (Soviet secret police) told me my next stay in Siberia would be much worse," he said.

Fish snaggers are cautioned

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Fish snaggers in northern California better watch out.

The State Department of Fish and Game said that there will be an increased effort to curb illegal fish snagging.

Snaggers are fishermen who drag large hooks through a river or stream to catch a fish instead of using bait or artificial lures.

The fine for violators can be as much as $190.

Undercover wardens issued citations to five persons in the last few days when they were caught snagging salmon and steelhead on the South Fork of the Smith River

Losing money, going out of business, but farmers 'never had it so good'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Most cattle feeders are losing money, hog producers are in trouble and dairy farmers are going out of business, but President Nixon generally was correct that "farmers never had it so good," says Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz.

Nixon was correct "in the aggregate" when he said agriculture is doing well, Butz said, because "the plain truth is that last year net farm income was at a record of over $25 billion, which was up $6 billion from the year before."

But Butz has conceded that "some individual parts of agriculture are in trouble," and acknowledged concern by the House Republican Caucus about adverse farmer reaction to Nixon's remarks Tuesday night in Houston. Rep. Wiley Mayne, R-Iowa, told Butz he received 20 telephone calls.

"The cattle feeder is losing money and is discouraged about expanding...and hog producers are in trouble," Butz said.

Some dairy farmers, hard pressed by rising feed costs, have been going out of business and "this is serious and has to be reversed," Butz said.

In Hawarden, Iowa, leaders of the Sioux County Cattlemen's Association, in a protest telegram to the White House, challenged Nixon to come to Iowa to see if farmers there "never had it so good."

"We're losing $150 to $200 a head, resulting in many cattle feeders being forced out of business and this is not, in our opinion, having it so good," a spokesman for the group said in a telephone interview.

Harlan Hummel, the Sioux County spokesman, said the group had asked for an "urgent meeting" to discuss their plight with White House aides.

Butz said food retailers, in response to pleas from him and from cattlemen, have begun a widespread wave of price cuts on beef by lowering their margins.

Kissinger:

Arabs won't reimpose oil embargo

By STEWART HENSLEY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said today the Nixon administration does not believe the Arab nations will reimpose their oil embargo when they meet June 1 to "review" the situation.

Kissinger told a 40-minute news conference that any action to reimpose the embargo on oil shipments to the United States would require a unanimous vote of the Arab producers, and he did not believe that was possible.

At the same time, Kissinger was optimistic about progress in peace efforts in the Middle East. He said the United States believed there was a chance peace and stability could be arranged.

He emphasized that "We do not hold the Soviet Union responsible for the artillery exchanges taking place in the Golan Heights," where there has been sporadic Israli-Arab dueling for the past 10 days.

He added, however, "we believe it would be better if both sides (on the Golan front) exercised restraint.

Kissinger, leaving Sunday for a visit to Moscow to prepare for President Nixon's planned summit meeting there in late June, rejected the idea that the President should not travel in Europe or go to Moscow "while the threat impeachment hangs over his head," as one questioner put it.

From what he read, Kissinger said, "a determination of the impeachment issue" will be made before Nixon goes to Moscow. In any event, he added, he and the President were formulating foreign policy on a basis of the best interests of the United States—without worrying about the other problems hounding Nixon.

Kissinger attempted to discount any lasting damage to U.S. relations with Western European countries arisng from critical remarks he and Nixon have made about U.S. allies in recent days.

He said the United States did not want to participate in formulating the policies of a unified Western Europe, but he did believe that after a decision was taken, the United States should be adequately consulted concerning the possible effect on the NATO alliance.

Kissinger said this was not the case in recent decision of the European to deal unilaterally with the Arabs on oil. He said a great deal had been written and spoken alleging European "consultation" before reaching a decision, but in fact no policy official in Washington had been advised of the decision before it was announced.

Onassis turns to Mississippi for oil plans

PASCAGOULA, Miss. (UPI) — Aristotle Onassis, whose plans to build an oil refinery were rebuffed by the residents of Durham, N.H., is looking at Mississippi as a possible site.

Nicholas Papanicolaou, vice president of Onassis' Olympic Refineries, Inc., said the firm has had "a number of proposals from Mississippi" for the proposed $600 million project.

He said company representatives will go to the Mississippi Gulf Coast in the next two weeks to examine prospective sites.

Papanicolaou said Olympic is interested in a Mississippi location because "a project like this cannot be located in an area where it is unpopular," as was the case in New England.

Teachers to plead for continuing bilingual education

POMONA — A proposal that Pomona School District fund the bilingual-bicultural program next year — should it be unsuccessful in obtaining federal-state funding — will be presented at Tuesday's school board meeting by Associated Pomona Teachers (APT).

Spokesman for APT, a United Teaching Profession chapter representing 88 per cent of the certificated employes in the district, will be executive director Del Pfeifer.

Presentations in support of the bilingual-bicultural program will be given by bilingual resource specialist Martha Gonzalez and Larry Ytuarte, a bilingual teacher at Hamilton school.

Federal assistance for the district program will be terminated June 30. In late February, the school board authorized administrators to apply for $255,455 additional funding from the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, Title VII.

Pomona schools have received this funding five consecutive years. A sixth year of funding is awarded districts with programs of exceptional merit or promise that prove exceptionally urgent need.

Under the bilingual-bicultural program this year, there are 19 classrooms at 11 schools — eight elementary and three secondary — with bilingual teachers, bilingual aides and bilingual materials.

Elementary pupils receive instruction in language, math, reading and English as a second language in Spanish.

At the secondary level, the students receive instruction in Spanish, in world history, U.S. history, math, health science, leadership, literature of Mexico and the Southwest and also English as a second language.

The current program is supervised by a director, a resource specialist, two clerical employes, two community aides and a half-time statistician.

Next year, if funding is made available either through Title VII or from the district, the program would continue at this level with the possibility of classrooms added at many of the schools where principals and staff are requesting expansion.

Some money would be used for inservice training for teachers, and some for books and materials which would be critical if the program were expanded.

Currently there are 1,052 pupils enrolled in the district's 19 bilingual classrooms.

There are more than 4,000 pupils in Pomona schools with Spanish surnames. More than 3,000 of these have been identified by the state as coming from homes where Spanish is spoken regularly.

APT feels that Spanish-speaking students who make a transfer from dominant language to a second language in school without specialized assistance suffer some loss of basic skills and concepts in academic subjects while learning English.

Miss Gonzalez and Ytuarte will tell the school board that bilingual and bicultural education is a positive philosophical approach to education "that develops the learner's assets by removing institutional, language and cultural barriers and restraints."

They feel it offers the promise of equal education to learn and succeed to all students and should be an integral part of the curriculum.

Bilingual-bicultural education, they claim, is not remedial, compensatory or enrichment. They say it is basic education.

Mother seeking support from two absent fathers

Can you tell me where to go for help to collect child support from two absent fathers?

I cannot afford a private attorney so I don't know where to turn.

My son's father has been paying through a Los Angeles court. I took him to court several years ago. He was ordered to pay $40 per month plus $20 on arrears he owed me.

I was told that as long as he paid $40 per month he would not be pressed for the arrears.

In January of this year I received a letter from the court trustee in Los Angeles stating that since I was now not on welfare, the trustee was no longer handling the case and my former husband would be instructed to send payment directly to me.

In San Bernardino I filed for child support for my two girls.

I was told that the district attorney's office could send a letter to the girls' father asking him to pay but that it couldn't be enforced because the office no longer issues a criminal complaint.

In the past five years we have been on welfare for two or three months three different times and the county collected child support then.

I do not understand why if you are on welfare the county goes all out to collect but if you are trying to stand on your own feet you are told the county can do nothing.

My husband had a tumor removed from his lung a year ago and has been forced to give up his occupation. We got the job of assistant manager at the apartment building where he lives. We are trying to make it without welfare assistance.

With six of us to feed and clothe we need a little help. — Mrs. V. T., Chino.

Our inquiry to the district attorney's office in San Bernardino brought a response from Richard S. Reid, chief of the child support division.

He told us that two weeks before he received our letter, the father of your girls had received a letter from the district attorney's office demanding that he make arrangements to support his daughters.

A few days after our letter arrived, the father signed an agreement to pay $51 every other week.

In the case of your son, he advised that since he would be 18 in a few months, the most appropriate action would be to leave things as they are.

He said his office does not have the authority to enforce the Los Angeles County court order. He doubts whether a criminal hearing could be held before your son becomes 18.

Since we have received other letters complaining about inability to collect child support, we asked whether it is true that a father can only be asked but cannot be compeled to support his children.

He said that in the experience of his office, enforcement of child support under California Penal Code 270 is not an effective remedy.

The penal code states that the offense is a misdemeanor and punishable by a fine not exceeding $1,000 or by imprisonment in a county jail not exceeding one year, or by both.

Reid said this does not mean a father cannot be compelled to support his children.

"In our opinion enforcement by a civil action in the Superior Court provides a far more effective enforcement remedy and enforcement under the various civil sections will be initiated in every possible case," he told us.

He stated that the father has a legal and moral obligation to support his children and that if he fails to meet responsibility aggressive court action will be taken to compel him to do.

Do you know of an organization for people who own turtles? — M. C., Pomona.

The Westchester Chapter of the California Turtle and Tortoise Club meets the fourth Friday of each month at 7:30 p.m. at Alondra Park Headquarters Building, 3850 Manhattan Beach Blvd., Lawndale.

That's a long way to go. Maybe some of our readers know of a similar group within easy crawling distance.

Man convicted in lottery case asks new trial

POMONA — Victor Michael Barbish, operator of the Youth Sportsman Center at 435 Pomona Mall West, is seeking a new trial of his recent lottery conviction here.

Attorney Norman Vroman, appearing for Barbish, made the motion before Pomona Municipal Court Judge Robert C. Gustaveson when Barbish was to be sentenced on the Feb. 27 conviction. Gustaveson continued the case to April 15.

Barbish, 37, 2177 Silvertree Road, Claremont, and employes James Bilicke and Sally Mae Adamovich were cited by Pomona police July 12 and charged with operating a lottery at the bingo parlor located at the Pomona Mall West address.

Barbish, who had similar problems while operating Vic's Steak House in La Verne, denied the charges and said that most of the money garnered at the parlor went to charitable causes.

Mailmen to call at schools in education drive

POMONA — The mailman is going the way of police and firemen in bringing education to the schools.

Pomona Postmaster Warren Lynch announced today that the story of the postal service will be brought to 5,000 third, fourth and fifth grade students here during Student Postal Week which starts next Monday.

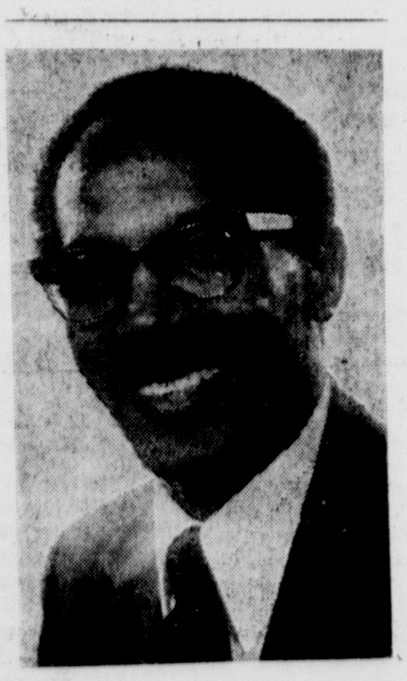
The program offers a study of all facets of America's postal system, from a step-by-step examination of how a letter goes from one city to another, to the depiction of American history through postage stamps.

"For years, police and fire departments and other public institutions have had active programs to make young citizens understand the way those groups work," Lynch said. "This is the first time the postal service has launched such a program nationwide."

Lynch said he was hopeful the children will learn more about how to make proper use of the mail.

Twenty-one schools in the Pomona district will participate in the program. Each classroom will receive a postal service educational kit. The students will also view a seven-minute movie, "But How Does It Get There?"

"The more people know about the program, the more efficiently they'll be able to use the mails," Lynch said.



JOSEPH L. DUNCAN, 49, of 1296 W. Sixth St., Pomona, has been appointed administrator of equal employment opportunity programs for Hughes Helicopters division of Summa Corp. in Culver City. He will be responsible for carrying out policies requiring equal employment and promotion of qualified applicants, regardless of race or sex.

HANDWRITING EXERCISE

Handwriting is one of the skills taught at the Pomona activity center of the Organization for Resocialization, Inc. Strokers are assisted in recovering their former skills, and those in the handwriting class write letters to stroke patients in hospitals to give them encouragement during their illness. Above, Marguerite Mansfield of Claremont, former teacher, demonstrates in class.

Stroke victims easing back into society by relearning lost skills

POMONA — "Strokers" are getting back into society, redeveloping their skills and reconstructing their lives with help received at an activity center at Ganesha Park on Mondays.

"Strokers" are not swimmers or boat rowers. They're persons who have suffered a cerebral vascular accident — a stroke — and must now fight to recover the skills they once had and the life they lived before their illness.

Sessions are sponsored by the Organization for After-Stroke Resocialization, Inc., and are held from 10 a.m to 3 p.m. each Monday at the park's Recreation Building.

The organization also sponsors a center at the Legion Memorial Hall in Glendora.

At the local center volunteer workers help the strokers develop hand-eye coordination through exercises and games, participate in social activities such as discussions, crafts and music, and work on handwriting and speech improvement.

Hobbies, discussions

After-stroke persons can also gain a new perspective and interest in life through an introduction to new hobbies and by discussing and solving some of their social problems and fears.

"So often a stroke deprives a person of what he was able to do before," stated Dr. Jessica Haskell, president of the board of directors of the resocialization organization. "A stroke can be a devastating experience, and after people leave the hospital they often go backward and lose ground. Our organization helps them to get among people again and helps them with their continuous fight to recover what they can.

"It is very important that the things we do will build them up and help them explore their capabilities. At the center they become interested and do more things than they would sitting at home."

The Ganesha center opened in January after board members and volunteers studied after-stroke programs in other locations, including the UCLA and UC Irvine medical schools' resocialization programs. A program was then established to meet the needs of strokers in the Pomona Valley.

Speakers, teachers visit

Jane Loomer, a member of the board of directors, is the director of the Pomona and Glendora centers. She arranges activities and invites guest speakers and teachers to visit the centers and give demonstrations and presentations for the strokers.

"Our purpose is to re-integrate strokers to society and community life," stated Mrs. Loomer. "We are developing our program to meet the changing needs of the stroker at different levels and we intend to provide more of interest for family members of strokers to help them cope with special problems."

Newsletters on the resocilization program are distributed to stroke patients at local hospitals and are then mailed to them when they return home. Strokers are encouraged to attend the weekly centers and some are referred to the center by nurses and doctors.

Sponsors of the center are Casa Colina, Pomona Valley Community, Intercommunity, West Covina and Glendora Community hospitals, the Easter Seal Society and the Claremont Presbyterian Church.

The Pomona Center is seeking more participants for its program. The center offers strokers a chance to return to a social setting and the community and to help each other through conversation.

"Here at the center the strokers are not different; their problems are understood and they're on equal ground with each other," stated Dr. Haskell. "We expose them to different activities and experiences and encourage them to live again."

Medical problems are left to others, explained Dr. Haskell. "We are involved with the social problems — just plain living."

"Resocialization is the process of helping people develop to their greatest potential. We can't do it for them, we can only give them the tools to help."

Ganesha senior advances in Lions contest

POMONA — Ganesha High School senior David Bannister, 17, has won the Lions Club student speech zone competition and now is eligible to compete in regional finals April 10 at Griswold's in Claremont.

Bannister early this month won the Pomona Uptown Lions Club's student speech contest which started him on his way.

The eventual winner in the Lions Cal-Nevada District will receive a $3,000 scholarship. The subject of this year's competition is "Ecology—Its Price."

Bannister is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. High of 2005 N. Garey Ave.

Beisel named to Sunkist post

ONTARIO — C. Gordon Biesel has been appointed division manager for products research and development for the Sunkist Growers, Inc.

He will be responsible for the company's research laboratories in Ontario and Corona. He will direct a staff of 20 research scientists who study chemical, biological and nutritional principles related to citrus processing.

Biesel joined Sunkist in 1953 as development department manager in Ontario. He later served in other technical and management positions, including production manager of the orange products division.

Biesel succeeds Horton E. Swisher, who retired March 1 after 28 years with Sunkist.

Sunkist Growers, Inc., is a marketing cooperative for 8,000 citrus growers in California and Arizona. During the past fiscal year, it processed over a million tons of citrus fruit into products for industrial and consumer use.

New bandits of the Old West

There's a lot more hustling than rustling going on in the modern West, 'podner.

The hustler wouldn't dream of stealing somebody's steer; he'd never knock you down on the street and lift your wallet. But each year he talks thousands of naive-greedy-softhearted (or headed) people out of millions of their hard-earned dollars by selling them a subdivided lot in the middle of nowhere, along with a dream of making a nice buck when the land is developed "in a few years."

In "The Land Hustlers," a recent series of articles distributed by Newspaper Enterprise Assn., author Anthony Wolff noted that the federal Office of Interstate Land Sales Regulation (OILSR), in order to protect consumers from deceptive salesmen, now requires developers to provide buyers with a property report describing the land.

Unfortunately, while it does give some relevant information, "with the way most subdivision lots are sold under pressure by salesmen trained in sleight-of-mouth, the report is next to useless," says Wolff.

It is a forbidding document dealing with encumbrances, easements and other technical matters difficult to understand. And though the OILSR points out that "this report is not a recommendation or endorsement of the offering," it may actually lend respectability to the fast-talking salesman, who can quite truthfully say that he is regulated by the government.

The way things are now is bad enough, but at least the land in question remains ecologically undisturbed. There's another way in which the government, in an attempt to insure that the land promoters live up to their promises, may be working against the best interests of the public.

Within eight years after offering property in a subdivision for sale, the seller must provide access to the subdivision by road and also rough in the subdivision streets by bulldozer.

Not only is the latter requirement relatively simple and inexpensive, it will be a great selling point to use with future "investors." "Look," the hustler can say, "We're already putting in the streets."

Thousands of years from now archeologists probably will puzzle over these strange markings in the middle of arid areas. What earthly reason, they will wonder, did the ancients have for making them? Could they possibly have been landing strips for gods from outer space?

Around and around we go

New York had its trylon and perisphere in 1939. Seattle its space needle in 1962. The symbol chosen for the upcoming Expo '74 World's Fair in Spokane, Wash., is the Mobius strip.

Named after August Ferdinand Mobius, a 19th-century German mathematician and theoretical astronomer, the Mobius strip is one of the simplest yet most intriguing geometrical figures ever discovered — a ribbon with only one side.

Anyone can make a Mobius strip by taking a ribbon of paper and touching the ends together to form a loop. One end is then flipped over the loop glued closed. A line drawn on the ribbon will go all the way around the entire surface and eventually meet itself — "just as man inevitably meets himself in the consequences of his actions in the natural environment of which he is an inseparable part," say the promoters of the exposition.

The Mobius strip was picked as the symbol of Expo '74, whose theme is "Celebrating Tomorrow's Fresh, New Environment," because it illustrates the unity of man and his natural surroundings. These represent a continuum, just as the Mobius strip does. does.

It's an appropriate symbol any way you look at it. Life today seems more and more like a Mobius strip, with everybody going around in circles and not seeming to get anywhere.

Sherpa shortage

Since everybody seems to be playing "Can You Top This?" on the subject of shortages, be advised that in the Himalayas they're running out of Sherpas.

No less than 22 mountaineering teams from eight countries plan to take the Himalayas this spring, reports the National Geographic Society, and many of these expeditions will be hard-pressed to find experienced Sherpa guides.

The famous mountain men who have successfully guided assaults on towering giants like Mount Everest now apparently prefer to shepherd tourist hiking groups at less demanding lower altitudes.

"They pay us equally well, and it is not such a back-breaking job," the Geographic quotes one Sherpa climbing veteran.

Sharp fellows, those Sherpas.

Rockwell unloads its white elephant

WASHINGTON — The taxpayers are bailing out another giant corporation, Rockwell International, which had been stuck with a lavish, out-of-the-way building it couldn't use.

Now the General Services Administration has agreed to take over the unoccupied building in exchange for government-owned property, which the corporation is leasing but would like to acquire.

The $20 million facility, which the taxpayers are about to take off Rockwell's hands, is located about 40 miles outside of Los Angeles. It is a magnificent building, nestled in the rolling hills of Laguna Niguel.

Because of a cutback in military electronics procurement, however, it has remained empty since its completion in 1971. Quite understandably, Rockwell officials have been eager to unload the white elephant, which has cost the company more than $1 million a year merely to maintain.

About a year ago, GSA advised Congress of its intention to exchange three "surplus" facilities in Los Angeles for the Laguna Niguel building. The appraisers determined the value of the swapped properties was approximately the same.

The deal would have gone through a month later, except for the strong opposition of Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., whose Government Operations subcommittee doggedly monitors GSA.

Brooks' year-long probe has determined that GSA has actually received reservations for only about half of the 750,000 square feet in the huge Rockwell plant. And some of those requests, Brooks felt, were suspect.

The President's San Clemente estate, for example, is only about 10 miles away and already about 20,000 square feet have been designated as a "temporary presidential documents storage area." But most of the government officials, who eventually will inhabit the building, live 30 to 40 miles away in the Los Angeles area. GSA officials vigorously deny that the $20 million building was purchased more for the convenience of President Nixon than the government employes it is supposed to house.

"The GSA has misled Congress and the public about the need for this space," Brooks told us, "in an effort to justify the acquisition." He complained that "there is no public transportation, no low or middle income housing in the area, and it is going to cost the government millions to provide these services and to move government agencies" to Laguna Niguel.

GSA boss Arthur Sampson told us, in rebuttal, that the acquisition of the Rockwell facility was "a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to get (the space) at half price." He said "action plans" would be formulated to provide housing and transportation.

He made no effort to conceal his feelings toward Brooks. "I'm tired of being nice to. . .our dear old friend" on Capitol Hill, Sampson stated, complaining that Brooks had delayed the acquisition of the facility for almost a year.

NIXON AND DETENTE: President Nixon is deeply conscious of the terrible power at his fingertips to plunge the world into a nuclear holocaust.

"I could push this button right here and in 20 minutes 70 million Russians would be dead," he told a secret strategy session on March 8. "And 25 minutes later, 70 million Americans would be dead," he added.

He made the statement to dramatize the importance of the Soviet-American detente. But it is a remark he has made in past private conversations, betraying a strange fascination with this control over the world's mightiest nuclear force.

He has also spoken admiringly of the cold courage that the late President Kennedy demonstrated during the nuclear showdown with Russia in 1972 over missile shipments to Cuba.

But on March 8, according to the confidential minutes, he spoke only of averting the massive casualties he could cause by pushing the nuclear button. We should "pray a lot," he told party leaders, and "do everything in our power to get along" with the Soviets.

The way to prevent a "longterm crisis," he said, was to avert a "short-term crisis." One way this could be accomplished, he urged, was to grant them trade concessions.

"If we don't talk to them, if we don't trade with them, we're going to face enormous increases in defense expenditures," he warned.

The President argued that it is possible to deal with the Soviets without approving their ideology.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

Angling for tapes is a fish story

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has criticized attempts to subpoena his tapes and records as "fishing expeditions."

For anyone who knows the territory, so to speak, that metaphor has real meaning.

Across the street from the Watergate apartment, hotel and office building complex is a Potomac River boat dock and embankment frequently used by fishermen.

As I was passing by there the other day I saw three anglers with lines in the water. Their faces looked familiar so I stopped to chat for a few minutes.

"Having any luck?" I asked.

An angler who introduced himself as a Mr. Jaworski bent down to the water's edge and pulled up a string of white housefish.

I gave a whistle of amazement.

"That's the biggest mess I've seen in a long time," I said.

"You should have seen the one that got away," Jaworski said.

"Are you going to try to land any more?"

Jaworski said the local game warden was claiming he already had exceeded the legal limit. But he contended that his catch included a number of undersized flukes and croakers that didn't really count.

"Some of them were so small I was tempted to throw them back," he said.

The next fisherman I talked to, an elderly gent called Sam, was having rotten luck.

"I haven't hooked anything in weeks," he said. "They were biting real good last summer but I seldom even get a nibble any more."

"Maybe you should try fishing somewhere else," I suggested.

"The location isn't the problem," he replied. "Anyone will tell you that Watergate is the best fishing spot in town.

"Why one night a couple of springs ago five suckers were caught here in one haul. And there are a lot of bullheads around here ready to be reeled in. You just can't see them because somebody has been muddying the water."

Sam blamed his recent failure to catch anything on a late arriving fisherman named Rodino.

"We were pulling them in hand over fist until he came along," Sam complained. "He's using such a big hook he's scaring the fish away."

But Rodino scoffed at Sam's carping.

"Those two guys," he said, gesturing toward Sam and Jaworski, "have been fooling around with the small fry. Fish like that are too hard to clean.

"I'm rigged up to catch a kingfish so big I'll be lucky if it doesn't break the pole."

Maybe Rodino will land a whopper. But I've noticed that kingfish have a way of wriggling off the hook.

LETTERS FROM P-B READERS

As others see it . . . letters

Impeachment--now!

I realize the question of impeachment has been over-worked, over-played, and over-written. But it is a very important issue at this time and warrants a great deal of discussion.

I, for one, am in favor of impeachment proceedings beginning immediately. Little, if any, more evidence will be uncovered without actual testimony on the floor of the House. Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski has been told by the White House that he'll not get any more information from the President's office.

It's hard for me to believe that if Nixon has the evidence to exonerate himself he would continue to conceal it. Especially since he has always been quick to act in his own best interests.

The President is doing his level best to stall this thing out long enough to sweep most of it under the rug. And time always works in favor of the defense.

Public interest in the whole Watergate affair is tapering off. The initial shock of Presidential wrongdoing has been absorbed. Many people seem to accept the fact that we have lawbreakers in our executive offices since they are more concerned with other issues.

But isn't the President a man, like all of us; subject to the same laws and punishments? It is indeed sad, though, that our judicial system believes that the amount of money or influence a man has, has a direct bearing on the degree of wrongdoing he is capable of.

I can understand the extreme pressure on each member of the House of Representatives. The people they represent have mixed emotions in the issue. Most people believe the President is guilty of one charge or another and want him out of office, but few want him impeached. And because this is an election year and any vote on impeachment will be made public, most politicians shrink from committing themselves. Thus there exists this constant hope for resignation. A resignation that isn't going to come. The only way to get the many, many charges answered and arrive at a final decision of guilt or innocence is impeachment — now!

Gossip for today

A terrible thing is about to happen here in the United States and you can blame it on a couple of so-called wonders of our electronically motivated society—the solid state transistor radio and the cassette playing tape recorder. Because of those inventions, two of America's most famous contributions to the world of music are about to go the way of the wandering troubadour and the clavichord. —A most unfortunate cultural loss, I'm sure you will agree. —For music hath charms, and some of the musical charm of yesterday's America will be gone forever now that Western Union has discontinued the singing telegram and Wurlitzer is getting out of the jukebox business.

Stiff upper lip prevails in Japan

TOKYO — It is possible to talk, as I have, of the prevailing high spirit in Japan and almost in the same breath to report properly that the oil crisis and the general problem of inflation have thrown this nation into a near-frenzy of confusion and uncertainty.

Admittedly, what one high official calls the "panicky days" when a much steeper oil import cutback was feared but did not materialize, are over. But the sustaining spirit has to override almost daily events and pronouncements which would drive most countries to collective madness.

Knowledgeable Japanese leaders in government and business are well aware that all the great industrial powers are engulfed in one way or another with the same puzzling issue: When, if ever in the foreseeable future, will inflation be brought under some kind of reasonable control and stability restored?

But the matter is particularly perplexing for Japan, where in truth government-business collaboration in production, trade promotion, growth policies and research and development is conducted with such control that it is correct to see the country as one huge corporation.

When I visited here in late 1971, the Japanese were reeling from the shock of President Nixon's suddenly announced stringent trade controls. They were angry and fearful, yet they felt that if they did certain specific things — accepted a quota agreement on textile exports to America, up-valued their currency, imposed voluntary restraints on exports of automobiles and electronic goods, lowered their own barriers to some U.S. products — they could regain control of their situation. They did these things and more, and their growth pace held at the miracle speed of 10 per cent through 1973.

This time it is different. They feel themselves in the grip of economic forces beyond their control, and that is a most uncomfortable position for a people accustomed to living by its own wits — pulling in the vital resources it lacks to sustain an industrial society, selling its products far and wide, measuring the intake and outgo almost with a calipers.

It is hard to see top officials today. Government and business leaders alike are on steady call at the Japanese Diet, whose 498-member lower house is pounding away in search of solutions to the menacing inflation.

Oil prices are under temporary freeze, while Prime Minister Tanaka and his various consultants try to figure out how much to let the prices rise. Meantime, the major world producers are complaining bitterly at what they say are unsustainable losses, even as they deny scare reports they might cut Japanese supplies by 25 per cent if adjustments aren't made soon.

I talked to Sohei Mizuno, president of the Arabian Oil Co., in hope of getting a wide-ranging discussion of oil prospects. He seemed obsessed by price uncertainties, and disposed briefly though courteously of my questions about reserves, future development, new technologies, other energy sources.

The highly influential Yoshizane Iwasa, board chairman of the powerful Fuji Bank, puts himself among the optimists. Yet, since I spoke with him in Washington only a few weeks ago, he has widened the Japanese economic prospect for 1974 to include a possible $10 billion balance of payments deficit instead of the outside limit of $8 billion he set earlier.

Japanese newspapers, always crammed with informative detail, recite such varied matters as a likely decline this quarter in vital sales of machinery, the diminishing chance that — with rising rent and food costs — university students in Tokyo will be able to make ends meet, the dispatch this week of government investigators to check on the length, width and weight of toilet and tissue paper being sold (both are scarce and subject to price hikes.)

A night or two ago, I caught sight of a nearly endless line of banner-bearing workers, heading for a rally as part of labor's annual "spring offensive" for higher wages. The crusihing demands inflation has put upon their earnings — even though they made good gains in 1973 — has led them to pose stiffer and more sweeping proposals than ever this year. A general strike is threatened for April, unless government negotiators and-or the Diet can offer enough satisfaction to cool off the militant mood.

Residents glow but fight may not be over

No last hurrah in airport defeat

By JON MORRIS
P-B Staff Writer

WALNUT — There is jubilation, but also some caution in the reaction of public officials and concerned citizens to the shelving of heatedly contested plans for an airport near here.

"I'm satisfied," said Walnut School Supt. David Brown, "in that it relieves us of an uncertainty."

The unknown factor referred to by Brown was that City of Industry planned to build a general aviation airport within 1,000 feet of Walnut Elementary School and a quarter-mile from a proposed Glenwick School site.

Industry City Atty. Graham Ritchie disclosed recently that a long-awaited environmental impact report (EIR) on phases two and three of the Industry redevelopment project does not mention the airport. A rough draft of the report, not released to the press, reportedly did include the airport, but the revised Feb. 8 edition ignores it.

Strong opposition to the airport caused the city to set the plan aside, Ritchi indicated, he cautioned, however, the plan has not been dropped and may be brought up again in the future.

The proposed airport would have been located in a small flat valley surrounded on three sides by Walnut, Diamond Bar and West Covina residential tracts. It would have been placed west of Lemon Road, just north of the Pomona Freeway.

Homeowners from those areas, backed by Rowland and Walnut school districts and the Walnut City Council, voiced strong disapproval of the project, in a fight which began last March.

"We were confronted with the airport being in immediate proximity to one of our schools," said Brown. "We're satisfied the uncertainty has been removed."

The change of plans will make it possible for the school district to utilize Walnut School "without a major adjustment," he added. "We have enough growth ahead without having to deal with that."

The noise impact of the airport, traffic circulation around it and danger to youngsters all were major concerns, Brown delcared.

Walnut City Councilman Richard Laughter said he was "happy" airport plans were set aside. "I was involved myself in the drive against it, and displayed petitions at my liquor store."

"I'm absolutely delighted," Christine Gilbert, chairwoman of Citizens Against the Airport, stated. "We've been fighting this for a year, and all of a sudden Industry gave up on the project."

Mrs. Gilbert added she was somewhat surprised the plans were shelved because Industry officials stated the airport would be "terrific for the area."

Light planes at first were proposed for the facility, she indicated, but "business executives use Lear jets and they are noisy. We didn't want to risk our homes and children. Also, someday there could be an air tragedy."

"I don't know how much our influence helped, but I feel City of Industry will never be as strong in this valley again."

Phil Anderson, president of the Rowland school board, declared he was "suspicious" about shelving of airport plans.

"I've seen nothing on this but a few newspaper articles that it is Industry's avowed purpose to do away with the airport," he added.

Anderson, a frequent critic of City of Industry and one who has expressed suspicion over redevelopment plans, said "I have to read between the lines on any information emanating from there."

He added that representatives of Assemblyman Joseph Montoya (D-50th Dist.) gave us a "pat on the hind end" when the school district solicited support in the fight against the airport.

William Daley, vice president of Walnut Homeowners Association, said he was "glad" about the plans being set aside. "City of Industry has reacted to public opinion on the issue."

TED SNYDER

33rd Congress Dist.

Demo candidate stresses deeds, not promises

WHITTIER — Ted Snyder, a Democratic candidate in the 33rd Congressional District, feels that people are "fed up with the old political con games" and this is one incentive for his entering the contest.

"A candidate should be judged on what he has already done and not on what he tells us he intends to do," the candidate said.

"People are fed up with the old political con games in which politicians buy elections with empty slogans, expensive literature and big money."

Snyder, administrative assistant to the president at Rio Hondo College, has lived in the district for the past 19 years. He is a former journalism and government teacher at Rio Hondo College.

The candidate is co-founder and immediate past president of the board of directors of Dial-Help, a crisis intervention telephone service in the Rio Hondo area.

He is also a member of the Whittier Area Coordinating Council, vice president of the Community Relations Council and a member of the Whittier Area Education Study Council.

Snyder said "my record of working with people, and for people, shows the kind of congressman I would be. It's time we turn politics around—no more dollars and deals," he declared.

Snyder holds degrees from St. Cloud State College and the University of Minnesota.

He and his wife, Margaret a registered nurse, have three children.

County to buy park, library land

DIAMOND BAR — There is approximately $300,000 in this year's county budget to acquire three park sites and a library site in Diamond Bar, according to First District Supervisor Peter F. Schabarum.

"The first thing we want to do," Schabarum told members of the Diamond Bar Homeowners Association Tuesday, "is to tie up the locations. We hope to conclude this package by the end of this fiscal year."

Schabarum said that the board next Thursday would consummate the purchase of 3.3 acres adjacent to Castle Rock Elementary School from the Diamond Bar Development Corp.

He said approximately $460,000 was being earmarked for development of that site, with $238,000 designated for phase one. James G. Cansler, deputy director of park resource development, showed artists' renderings of site development which included a lighted ballfield, a children's play area, picnicking areas, a hard court area, the remodeling of the old Diamond Bar headquarters building and a 36-car parking lot.

Other park sites in the package are 43-acre expansion of 14-acre Sycamore Park at Golden Springs Road and Diamond Bar Boulevard, and a 6.3-acre site north of Mount Laurel Way near Maple Hill Road.

The library site, about one acre, is on Grand Avenue and Diamond Bar Boulevard.

The Irvine architectural firm of Anthony and Langford has been retained to prepare plans and specifications for the development of Castle Rock Park.

Schabarum told the homeowners he was hopeful work at Castle Rock and Sycamore Canyon parks could begin in the next fiscal year. He said tentative plans call for Sycamore Canyon Park to have a five-acre, flat area with a playing field.

"The need for parks in Diamond Bar is not new, and is top priority. We have been trying to put this package together for 18 months," said Schabarum.

"When we have this program accomplished we will have gone a long ways towards filling Diamond Bar's park needs. I'm enthusiastic about the program. If we can sustain our funds into the fiscal year we will see some progress".

Panel draws boundaries of Diamond Bar as city

DIAMOND BAR — The incorporation study committee of the Diamond Bar Homeowners Association is preparing boundary maps for the county to use in a study into the feasibility of this community incorporating as a city.

Committee chairman Donald G. Stokes said this step was prompted by a recent meeting with Ruth Benell, deputy executive officer of the Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO).

"Once the boundary maps are submitted for county engineering and the feasibility study we have requested, the committee will continue its efforts to study Diamond Bar's existing tax base, the cost of community services and other important facets the community if incorporation becomes a reality," said Stokes.

He indicated this study is complex and would take considerable time before any consideration would be given to actually applying for incorporation.

"Our committee is most interested in gathering the complete facts and presenting them to the community," said Stokes. "This type of information will enable our voters to make a wise decision when it is presented to them."

Stokes said the county's feasibility study probably would be complete by July or August, at which time "the homeowners incorporation study committee would be better able to dertmine its ultimate direction."

The last feasibility study by the county for the homeowners was made in 1969.

Rowland High will be host for schools choral festival

ROWLAND HEIGHTS — The second annual Rowland School District choral festival will be held Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Rowland High School gym.

Students and directors from Alvarado, Giano and Rincon intermediate schools and Nogales and Rowland high schools will participate.

As a finale, the massed choirs of about 250 students will perform "The Exodus Song."

The purpose of the festival is to give students an opportunity to work and learn under other choral directors. Dwaine S. Douglas is festival coordinator.

The program will include contemporary anthems, spirituals and songs written for choral festivals.

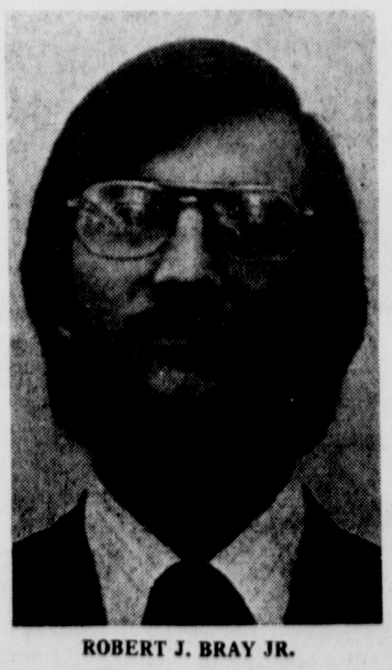
West Covinan wins trip in store event

INDUSTRY — Mrs. Janie Messerli of West Covina has won a trip for two to Hawaii in a contest held during the opening of The Broadway's newest store in the Puente Hills Mall.

She was married in Hawaii more than 25 years ago. "I never thought that I'd get a chance to return to Hawaii, but The Broadway has made it all possible," she said.

Teacher Ann Farah of Whittier won a 1974 Chevrolet Vega in the contest. She was married in February and considers her new car "a delayed wedding present."

Walnut schools, city hire first joint recreation chief



ROBERT J. BRAY JR.

WALNUT — Robert J. Bray Jr. has assumed duties as director of recreation for the Walnut-Diamond Bar area, school officials have announced.

Bray, 27, is the first to direct a jointly sponsored recreation program for the City of Walnut and the school district.

Operating from a district office at 476 S. Lemon Road, Bray will be working to develop a comprehensive, diversified program of recreation at five elementary schools, Suzanne Intermediate and Walnut High School.

He expects to implement a full-scale summer playground program, with City Olympics staged at Walnut High, involving youths of all age groups in track and field events.

Bray previously served four yeas with the Baldwin Park Recreation Department where he was assistant recreation coordinator.

Married and a Baldwin Park resident, he is a U.S. Navy veteran. Bray graduated from Citrus College and Cal Poly Pomona, with a bachelor's degree in behavioral sciences.

Ex-Pomonan named to management role

POMONA — George Edmondson Jr., a former Pomona resident, has been named northeast regional manager for Pier 1 Imports.

He will be responsible for 29 stores in New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island.

Edmondson, a 1962 graduate of Claremont High School, has been with the firm for two years. He served as manager of a store in Concord, Calif. In his new job, he will be based at Menlo Park, N.J.

Justice Dept. targets in on truckers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department, after years of battling individual companies on minority employment discrimination, has turned its legal guns on the trucking industry as a whole and plans to take action soon against the steel industry.

Attorney General William B. Saxbe has filed suit naming almost 350 trucking firms—virtually every sizeable company in the field—in a class action charging discrimination against blacks and persons with Spanish surnames.

The suit filed in U.S. District Court here also named the Teamsters Union and a Washington-based firm representing trucking firms in union negotiations, charging discrimination in seniority and transfer practices.

Filed with the suit was a consent decree in which the seven major defendants in the suit, without admitting any past discrimination, agreed to substantially boost hiring of minorities until every job classification reflects the racial makeup of the area involved.

Assistant Attorney General J. Stanley Pottinger, who heads the Civil Rights division, expects within the next few weeks a similar consent decree in the case of the unions. The decree carries the weight of a court order without the case having gone to trial.

"We are now negotiating with the steel industry on the same basis," Pottinger said. He said he expected a similar suit and consent decree in the near future involving the nation's steel companies.

He said the suit filed Wednesday was the department's first class action suit against an entire industry, and said the approach would save 10 years worth of work by 10 department lawyers by avoiding filing of a barrage of similar suits.

The companies involved in the consent order were Arkansas-Best Freight System Inc., Fort Smith, Ark.; Branch Motor Express Co., New York City; Consolidated Freightways Inc., Menlo Park, Calif.; I.M.L. Freight Inc., Salt Lake City, Utah; The Mason and Dixon Lines Inc., Kingsport, Tenn.; Pacific Intermountain Express Co., Oakland, Calif. and Smith's Transfer Corp., Staunton, Va.

The suit also named the Teamsters Union, the Teamsters' Over-the-Road and City Cartage Policy and Negotiating Committee, and Trucking Employers Inc. which represents trucking firms in union negotiations.

The other 342 truck lines were named as members of the same class. Pottinger said he expected the judge to accept the designation, which would make the consent order binding on them.

Pottinger said the hiring goal in each case would be one-third minority workers until employment ratios reflecting the general population were reached. 4

Flush of victory for ban on pay toilets

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A proposal to wipe out pay toilets in government buildings was attacked Wednesday before a Senate committee.

But the measure finally cleared the Health and Welfare Committee with a 7-4 vote, the bare minimum required.

Opposition came from the County Supervisors Association, the Association of California Airport Executives, and the Nik-O-Lok Co. which installs and maintains pay toilet locks.

They said it would squeeze their income.

Assemblywoman March K. Fong, D-Cakland, sponsored the measure (AB1650) which was advanced to an uncertain future in the Finance Committee.

Mrs. Fong said pay toilets discriminate against women.

"This bill is really something the people of California want," she said.

The bill, backed by the National Organization for Women, would outlaw pay toilets in any establishment operated by state, city, or county agencies.

Spokesmen for the supervisors and airport executives said the proposed ban would deprive local governments of muchneeded revenue.

Pride in public toilets was brought into the debate by J. F. Ewald of the manufacturing company who said many people prefer a pay toilet to a free one.

"The public seems to respect pay toilets more than free ones," he insisted. "When they pay for them they seem to take better care of them."

Mrs. Fong, a candidate for secretary of state, said collecting revenue with pay toilets "is outrageous and disgusting."

Sen. Mervyn Dymally, D-Los Angeles, began preparing an amendment which Mrs. Fong feared would weaken the bill.

Dymally, a candidate for lieutenant governor, withdrew the offer when Mrs. Fong told him, "Senator, think twice. You've got a great record on women's lib."

An amendment by Sen. Jack Schrade, R-San Diego, to retain a certain number of pay toilets was defeated before the bill was approved.

Policeman, girl injured in crashes

POMONA — Two persons, one a police officer, were injured in Pomona traffic accidents Tuesday.

Lt. D.L. Liming, 40, sustained a forehead injury in the collision of his police car and an auto driven by Floyd A. Rodin, 73, of 520 E. Harvard Pl., Ontario. Liming was released after treatment at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

Officers reported that Rodin said he was unfamiliar with the area and didn't notice the traffic signal before entering the intersection. He was eastbound and Liming was northbound when thhey collided shortly before 11 a.m.

Sixteen-year-old Aracli Perez, 1333 W. Eleventh St., suffered forehead and jaw injuries when the car she was in hit a parked car Tuesday afternoon. The driver, Balbina C. Aldrete, 18, of 432 E. Carlton St., Ontario, was northbound in Hamilton Boulevard when his car hit the parked vehicle south of Colony Drive.

Miss Perez was released after treatment at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

Moon not cheese, but part of it is green

HOUSTON (UPI) — It turns out that the moon is, at least in part, green. But it's not cheese, it's a mineral known as Dunite.

The mineral was identified in a rock believed to be as old as the moon itself.

The lunar sample was among those recovered by the Apollo 17 mission in 1972.

Dr. A.L. Albee of California Institute of Technology said the rock was found among the 200 pounds of material collected by the Apollo 17 crew. Albee said the rock fragment, identified after months of analysis, contains a greenish mineral called Dunite.

Atomic age-dating methods indicated the sample was 4.6 billion years old, generally thought to be the age of the solar system.

Samples from earlier Apollo missions were thought to be pieces of the original moon, but atomic testing proved that to be incorrect.

The Dunite sample probably was ripped from deep within the moon, Albee theorized, by a collision with a large meteor and lay on the lunar surface for perhaps billions of years until the astronauts found it.

Dr. John A. Wood, a lunar geologist at the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory in Cambridge, Mass., said "one of the great guests of lunar sample analysis from the outset has been to find samples of the very oldest lunar material that formed right back at the beginning.

"And it never came," he said. "We kept getting these ages for the lunar rocks that corresponded to about a billion years after the origin of our solar system."

Wood said the Dunite sample is similar to what scientists expect to find in the deep interior of the moon.

Vegas envoys try to reverse driver slump

"Las Vegas is easy" is the theme of a promotional program currently being carried out by some 50 business executives of the desert resort who are visiting throughout Southern California.

Stating that there is more than sufficient gas along the desert highway and within Las Vegas itself, members of the Governor's Southern Nevada Tourism Task Force are calling on travel agencies and news media to inform local residents of the ease with which they can reach the desert fun spot.

"The communities of Victorville, Barstow and Baker, along the Las Vegas highway are suffering greatly because of the loss of tourist traffic," said Herb Stout, president of the Las Vegas Chamber of Commerce.

Stout explained that "the desert communities derive a large portion of their income from travelers. With the present drop-off of traffic, their economy is suffering and service stations find themselves with an overabundance of gas."

Within Las Vegas itself, Stout said a program has been worked out to keep a large number of stations open seven days a week to provide sufficient fuel for visiting motorists. He also said there is a campaign to keep Las Vegas residents from purchasing gas on the weekends to save it for tourists.

It was also pointed out that Las Vegas and San Bernardino County do not subscribe to the "odd-even" rationing program, allowing for gas service throughout the week.

One of the major points being carried by members of the blitz team is the fact that a toll-free telephone number is presently being installed so that residents of Southern California can call for up-to-the-minute gas information on a 24-hour basis.

Dick Odessky, chairman of the promotional blitz and director of public relations for the Las Vegas Stardust Hotel, said calls to the toll-free number will provide information on gas availability in the various desert communities as well as in Las Vegas.

A major promotional and advertising campaign will be launched by Las Vegas the moment the phone installation is complete, providing the number to all Southern California residents.

Odessky said Las Vegas business has dropped off some due to the reaction of Southern Californians to the fuel crisis. But airline travel and buses have picked up a large part of the slack. Another heartening sight is the number of motorists who are doubling up for their drive across the desert.

"Everytime we see a car pull into our hotel with two of three couples, we realize that a great deal of fuel has been saved by the operation of one vehicle instead of two or three," he explained.

Oliva makes his first spring hit a 'biggie' against Chisox

By MILTON RICHMAN

Somebody else may wind up Manager of the Year, but Frank Quilici has Manager of the Spring wrapped up so well, nobody can possibly take it away from him.

Here's a guy whose ball club has won only two out of 15 games this spring and maybe you'll never believe it, but somebody actually caught him smiling Thursday.

One swing of the bat, Tony Oliva's bat, did it.

All this took place in Orlando, Fla., at Tinker Field Thursday during the seventh inning of a ball game with the Chicago White Sox when Oliva, playing for the first time this season, not only broke a 5-5 tie, but also broke up the entire Twins' bench with one of those unbelievable eye-blinkers which finally stopped rattling around in the second deck of the Tangerine Bowl behind right field.

Oliva's tape-measure job, coming with one on, powered the struggling Twins to a 7-6 win over the White Sox and was his first base hit of the spring.

Seven homers, five of them by the White Sox, were struck in the game and with a 30-MPH miniature gale blowing out to center that was understandable, but there was no wind at all blowing when Oliva unloaded. Steve Braun also homered for the winners while Jerry Hairston connected for a pair and Bucky Dent, Ken Henderson and rookie catcher Pete Varney each hit one for the White Sox.

Cardinals 2 Tigers 0

Jose "Cheo" Cruz is supposed to be the St. Louis Cardinals No. 4 outfielder, only nobody ever told him, so he goes on performing like he's No. 1.

Theoretically, Lou Brock, Reggie Smith and speedster Bake McBride are all ahead of him in the Cards' outfield, but nobody was ahead of him Thursday at St. Petersburg where he had three hits and originated a nifty shoe-top catch and perfect on-the-run throw double play from the outfield in a 2-0 victory over the Detroit Tigers. St. Louis has now won eight of 12.

Giants 5 Indians 0

Tom Bradley brought some joy to the Giants by blanking the Indians on five hits over six innings in a 5-0 decision at Tucson, Ariz., and Cleveland came out of it with a far greater concern than merely the loss of the ball game.

Buddy Bell, the Indians' fine young third baseman, wrenched his right knee diving to tag Bobby Bonds and that's the same knee he hurt playing basketball this winter and which has been bothering him a bit this spring. No ligament or cartilage damage showed up on the X-Rays taken of Bell's knee at Tucson Clinic.

Red Sox 7 Expos 6

Reliever Craig Caskey's 10th inning wild pitch enabled Dick McAuliffe to come across with the run that gave the Red Sox a 7-6 verdict over ths Expos, who dropped their fourth straight.

Bob Veale, third of four Boston pitchers, was credited with ths victory that made the Red Sox' spring record 11-4. Rookie Barry Foote, who broke in with four hits in six trips for the Expos last September, continued campaigning for the regular catching job with two hits and three rbi's.

Astros 6 Braves 5

Houston ran its winning string to three games with a 12inning 6-5 triumph over Atlanta at Cocoa, Fla., Milt May singling home Tommy Helms with the game-winner. Darrell Evans and Mike Lum homered for the Braves and rookie Cliff Johnson for the Astros.

Royals 10 Pirates 9

The sun in Fort Myers, Fla., warmed the folks who watched the Kansas City-Pittsburgh ball game but it didn't do a whole lot for the players. Al Cowens, rookie outfielder trying to make it with KC, twice lost fly balls in the sun and Pittsburgh right fielder Richie Zisk let Amos Otis' routine fly drop for a double.

Phillies 5 Reds 3

Mike Anderson bumped Tom Osburn for a three-run homer in the fourth inning and the Phillies made it stand up for a 5-3 decision over the Reds. Cincinnati had scored three runs an inning earlier off winner Steve Carlton in a rally capped by Tony Perez' two-run homer.

Pirates 7 Yankees 4

Some of the Pirates stayed back in Bradenton, Fla., and they did better than the ones who hit the road, beating the Yankees, 7-4, with big Dave Parker contributing a pair of homers and a triple.

Cubs 9 Padres 8

The sun caused trouble in Arizona, too. Fighting it in Yuma, San Diego centerfielder John Grubb dropped a fly ball with the bases loaded in the eighth and the Cubs scored four unearned runs to shade the Padres, 9-8. Jose Cardenal had a three-run homer for the Cubs and Matt Alexander, their switch-hitting rookie outfielder, hit a two-run homer.

Athletics 7 Brewers 4

Vida Blue's fine pitching performance highlighted Oakland's 7-4 win over Milwaukee. Chuck Dobson started for the Athletics and surrendered all the Brewers' runs, which included two homers by George Scott and another by John Briggs. But Blue held the loser's hitless during his stint and Oakland came back from a 4-0 deficit to win with the aid of Tim Hosley's two-run homer.

'Pack seeks revenge over favored Bruins

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI) — North Carolina State may be a slight underdog going into Saturday's NCAA semi-final game against UCLA, but a home crowd and the desire for revenge could help erase the Bruin edge.

The Wolfpack completed workouts in Raleigh Thursday before some 5,000 adoring fans and headed down the road to Greensboro where they hope to emerge Monday evening with the national title.

UCLA, the defending NCAA champion, arrived Thursday along with players from Marquette and Kansas, who will square off in the other semi-final game Saturday. Each team is scheduled to work out in the coliseum today.

Two North Carolina State players admit they were awed by the Bruins, who were ranked first nationally when they first met in December, but they're over it now. That game proved the only blemish on State's record this season.

"We're cruising now and they're having a hard time," said Wolfpack junior Mo Rivers, noting that UCLA lost three games since they met. "I'd be worried if I were them."

Senior Steve Nuce, said, "We may have been awed the first time. I know I was. But then we started playing them and it went away. I don't think it will happen again."

But the Bruins, headed by center Bill Walton, are not being taken lightly, even though Norm Sloan decided not to scout their playoff games.

"We'll just jump on the boards, run up and down and press as hard as we can," said Sloan. "If the ball goes in, we have a good chance.

"I know their personnel. I know they've got Big Red (Walton) and that's enough right there."

Kansas and Marquette have taken a back seat in pregame publicity to State and UCLA but both feel they have a chance to go all the way.

"We're coming to win," said Marquette coach Al McGuire. "I can tell you we're not satisfied just to be here."

McGuire said his team's quickness will be a big asset. Kansas coach Ted Owens agrees.

"We're not slow like some people say, but maybe Marquette is a little quicker," Owens said. "But we both press, have the same style, good mtachups. I think we're pretty even."

GETTING READY FOR WORK

Sprinter Herb Washington, hired as a pinchrunner for the Oakland A's, loosens up before the A's game with Milwaukee Thursday. Washington, who did not see any action in the game, is to receive base running instructions later from Maury Wills.

Revson crashes, dies in Johannesburg mishap

dondo Beach, Calif., from New York.

The cosmetics company with which many fans identify him is owned by his uncle, Charles Revson. His own family is better than well off and his parents disapproved of his racing.

Revson entered formula 1 racing with Yardley-McLaren, the team which gave him his two GP victories last year. He changed to the English-based Shadow team this year when offered the No. 1 job previously held by two-time world champion Graham Hill of England.

Revson was one of a small band of Americans who challenged on the road circuits of the world, reserving his domestic races for the "500" series and Can-Am racing.

When he won at Silverstone last year, he joined the small band of Americans to win a GP. Former world champion Phil Hill, Dan Gurney and Mario Andretti were the others.

Revson made his name in the Can-Am series, which he won in 1971 as a member of the McLaren stable. It was this which decided him to venture into GP racing, the traditional preserve of European and Latin drivers.

In 1971, the year of his CanAm success, he won the pole position at Indianapolis but finished second in the race won by Al Unser.

Revson was due to drive for Roger Penske at Indy this year. Penske, on hearing the news by telephone in Indianapolis, said: "This is a complete shock. I am stunned." He did not say if he'll look for a replacement driver.

It is ironic that Revson should meet his death in a race which was cancelled because of the worldwide fuel crisis. The South African GP, normally held at the turn of the year, was only reinstated last month.

Drivers have always found the Kyalami circuit difficult to handle because of its altitude, but it not considered a dangerous circuit.

Lakers lead by 1½; meet Bulls

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — The Los Angeles Lakers, coming off a rest day and with a victory over Milwaukee in their last Forum appearance, hope to tighten their hold on the Pacific Division title by beating the Chicago Bulls tonight in an NBA game.

The Lakers go into the game against Chicago 1½ games ahead of Golden State in their battle for the Pacific Division playoff spot thanks to the Warriors' 115-102 loss Thursday night to Buffalo.

The loss gave the Lakers, who have a 45-34 record with three games remaining on their schedule, a new edge in their battle with Golden State. The Warriors now are 43-35 with four games to play.

The Lakers got a strong performance against Milwaukee Wednesday night from Elmore Smith, who has replaced Wilt Chamberlain at center.

Veteran star Bill Bridges said of teammate Smith, "When you're young, it's difficult to be consistent, but Elmore seems motivated by pressure. It's not how you start but how you finish."

Smith, who started the season slowly, has scored 92 points in the last four games. He popped in 20 against Milwaukee, grabbed 11 rebounds and blocked five shots.

Pam Dusek stars today

Star of tomorrow? She's here today

By GRAHAM CROW
P-B Correspondent

ONTARIO — Pam Dusek is not your average 19-year-old girl. After all, how could you refer to anyone as being average who is employed as a draftsman (or should that be draftsperson?) and designs fire sprinkler layouts?

But this Chaffey College sophomore has several attirbutes which set her apart from her peers. First, she is taller than most at 5-10 and her 3.8 grade point average distinguishes her from most people her age.

Yet the daughter of Bill and Virginia Dusek was given an even greater distinction a few weeks ago when she learned that she was the recipient of the 1974 Alberta E. Crowe "Star of Tomorrow" Award given each year by the Women's International Bowling Congress to the outstanding Junior girl bowler in the nation.

Pam will receive the award, generally considered the highest honor that can be given a Junior bowler, at the National Women Bowling Writers' meeting on Sunday, April 21 in Houston, Tex.

She becomes only the third Southern Californian to ever win the "Star of Tomorrow" name, following in the footsteps of Karen Gustavsen, the 1972 winner from Sunland, and the current Southern California Woman Bowler of the Year, Cheryl Kominsky, who was given the future star tag in 1970.

Miss Dusek's accomplishments were turned in to the WIBC officials by American Junior Bowling Association coach Barbara Pettigrew of Claremont and bowling partner Ernie Harding.

When informed by phone that she had won the coveted award, Miss Dusek reacted naturally.

"I simply couldn't believe it," Pam said. "I kind of went berserk telling all my friends around the bowling alley."

Although Pam never thought that she would get the award, a quick look at her qualifications reveal that it probably was an easy selection on the part of the WIBC.

Currently bowling in three leagues, Pam carries averages of 184 in the San Fernando Valley Traveling League, 185 in the Inland Empire Travel and a most impressive 202 mark for 37 games in the Match-Point Trio League at her home house, Garey Center Bowl in Pomona.

A nominee for Southern California honors last season, it was a low average in most of her leagues that kept Pam off the local All Star team.

"I decided that I should get a coach so I asked Tom Ray at Garey for help. He pointed out that anyone could average in the 170's by just bowling in leagues but if I wanted to improve, I would really have to practice."

Utah may be impressive in NIT, but...

NEW YORK (UPI) — Utah is impressive and admits it now "expects" to win the National Invitation basketball Tournament, but first they've got to find a way to turn off the turned-on Boston College Eagles.

Down by 17 points early in the second half and apparently whipped by one point with three seconds left, the Eagles won on a "beautiful heave" by freshman Paul Berwanger, 76-75, over the University of Connecticut Thursday to qualify for a semi-final game against Utah on Saturday.

Utah's Redskins handled things in a lot smoother if not as heartstopping fashion in their semi-final, downing Memphis State, 92-78. The other semi-final Saturday will pit Purdue against Jacksonville, who won their quarterfinals Tuesday night, and most experts now are forecasting a Utah-Purdue finale on Sunday.

B. C., of course, has other ideas.

The Eagles, down by 40-33 at the half against U-Conn and by 17 points early in the second half, had battled back and actually led by one point with a half-minute to go when Jerry Nolan was credited with a basket on goaltending by the Huskies' John Thomas. But Jimmy Foster, who had 20 for the Huskies, put his team ahead again with a fallaway shot.

B.C. had the ball on an inbounds play, but the play was broken. The ball was slapped to Berwanger, and the freshhman flipped it from 10 feet away. It banked in off the boards for the winning basket, and he admitted later himself it was a "beautiful heave."

"I never saw a shot like that," said a grinning Bob Zuffelato, the Eagles' coach.

Zuffelato explained that the Eagles' comeback when they seemed out of the game had been due to some they did —a fullcourt zone press that rattled the Huskies, and some Connecticut did —it went into a slowdown and then couldn't get rolling again.

Bob Carrington and Mark Raterink had 25 points each for B. C. and Tony Hanson 24 for Connecticut.

Utah's running Redskins dominated play at both ends of the court against Memphis, leading 47-37 at halftime. Memphis staged a comeback as Bill Cook sank long shots over the Utah zone and led by 62-61 with 10:10 to play. But Utah then switched to a man-for-man defense, outscored Memphis, 31-17, the rest of the way to win comfortably.

Soph Ticky Burden again led Utah with 29 points and is the tourney's leading two-game scorer with 63. Cook had 23 for Memphks.

"Our chances to win the tournament are much better now and, in fact, we expect to win," said Utah coach Bill Foster.

Foster said Boston College is not just an opportunistic team —"its a really good club, it can shoot rebound, and it's quick — quickness is what it's noted for."

But, adds Foster, "our boys are confident now."

Retired jerseys

CANTON, Ohio (UPI) — Officials at pro football's Hall of fame say a total of 57 football numbers have been "retired" officially or unofficially by the 26 National Football League teams and will not be worn by another player on those teams. The Chicago Bears, charter member of the 54-year-old league, has retired the most numbers — eight. These eight were worn by Bronko Nagurski, George McAfee, Sid Luckman, Bill Hewitt, Bulldog Turner, Red Grange and two players who died prematurely — Willie Gallimore and Brian Piccolo.

Kings tighten hold on third

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — "This was a big game for us," coach Bob Pulford said Thursday night after the Los Angeles Kings defeated the California Golden Seals, 6-3, to tighten their hold on third place in the NHL West.

"A year ago at this time, we lost to this team, and that put us out of the playoffs.

"We were very up for this game."

The victory put Los Angeles three points ahead of fourth-place Atlanta and nine on top of the St. Louis Blues.

It was earned with the help of Don Kozak's two goals and Juha Whiding's goal and three assists.

Bob Berry, third member of the Kozak-Whiding line, added a goal and two assists.

"We're slowly but surely putting the pressure on the other teams," said Berry. "We should make it into the playoffs without any sweat."

Pulford, summing up the game, said, "We forechecked as well as we have all season. That's how we got our goals."

Of Kozak, he said: "I was very pleased with his play. He's vastly improved on his checking. There's never been any doubt of his offensive ability."

Pulford noted that Kozak has spent only 48 minutes in the penalty box all season, that he's just 21 years old and that he has 16 goals for the year— five in the last six games.

The Kings now are undefeated in their last nine matches, winning seven and tieing two.

Al Downing paces L.A.

MIAMI (UPI) — Southpaw Al Downing, in sharp form, shut out the Baltimore Orioles for six innings Thursday as the Los Angeles Dodgers scored a 3-2 victory.

Downing, the winning pitcher, allowed just four hits and struck out four. He then gave way to reliever Charlie Hough, who surrendered both Oriole runs on Mike Reinbach's two-run ninth-inning homer.

Losing hurler Ross Grimsley gave up only one run in his seven innings, on back-to-back doubles by Ron Cey and Steve Garvey in the fifth.

Los Angeles added two runs in the ninth against Doyle Alexander. Both the Dodgers and Orioles now have 7-5 preseason records.

Pomona remains unbeaten

Giants experiment and still win easily

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — It was a little closer than expected, but Ganesha High still remained unbeaten in San Antonio League track action Thursday.

The Giants, defending league champions, shuffled their roster a little against the hosting Garey Vikings but was still able to walk away with a 74-43 victory.

The win keeps Ganesha's league record clean, sweeping through the three times out against SAL foes.

The Giants didn't have any double winners in the meet, capturing 10 of the 14 events. But Ganesha coach Bud Petersen pointed out an outstanding performance by his quarter-miler, sophomore Carl Bailey.

Bailey won the 440 in 52.6 seconds, and Petersen had nothing but praise for his speedster.

"A 52.6 on this track isn't bad at all," stated the Giant skipper. "He has those smooth, long strides."

Bailey also ran the third leg on Ganesha's winning mile relay team which posted a 3:46.9 for the day's final event.

But Bailey wasn't the only hero for the Giants.

Hurdler Lloyd Jones opened the day of activities by winning the 120 high hurdles in 15.3 seconds, and then came back to capture third place in the 180 lows.

Half-miler Glen Harter had an easy time claiming first place in the 880, posting a 1:58.7 for the two laps.

Sprinter Ron Jacques nearly posted a double win for the defending SAL titlists as he won the 100 yard dash in 10.3 seconds and then was nipped by Garey's Stanley Webster in the 200.

Webster was the only double winner of the day — winning the long jump with a leap of 20-0 and then taking the 220 in 23.8 seconds.

He was also the hero in Garey's winning 440 relay team. As anchorman for the four-man team, Webster nipped Ganesha's Cleve Porter at the wire for the victory.

Garey only trailed the Giants by seven points, 37-30, after the first eight events. But then the visitors widened their lead by taking the Vikings in the 440 and the 180 lowhurdles.

After Webster's victory in the 220 to put Garey 16 points back, 55-39, Ganesha swept the high jump, won the two mile and ran away with the mile relay.

Gary George led the Giant sweep in the high jump with a 6-0 mark, and then distance man Pat Staley led the two-mile competitors across the finish line in 10:13.7.

Other Ganesha winners included Charles Stewart in the 180 low hurdles (20.3), Mike Higginbotham in the pole vault (10-6) and Jan Parkson in the shot put (48-10).

While Ganesha is 3-0 in league outings this season, Garey's record drops to 0-3. The Giants meet Chino next Tuesday and then will get ready for the Chino Relays next Friday. Garey will take on Claremont Tuesday and will also compete in the Chino Relays.

Pomona High sounded its warning in the San Antonio League track competition Thursday afternoon.

The Red Devils, figuring to have a tough test against the hosting Cowboys of Chino, handled the meet with surprising strength to remain on top in the SAL standings.

When it was all over in Chino, the Red Devils were heading home with a 79-39 win.

Both teams entered the meet unbeaten after two outings in league play, but now the only teams left undefeated in the SAL are Pomona and Ganesha.

There were four teams tied for the league with 2-0 marks before Thursday, but two of them ended up on the losing end.

The big upset in the SAL was produced in Montclair where the Cavaliers knocked off Claremont, 68-50. In the only other SAL action, Upland slipped past Damien, 65-53.

In the Hacienda League, defending league champion San Dimas' meet with Walnut was postponed to Monday since the Walnut track was flooded by the sprinkler system. Royal Oak didn't mind competing Thursday, however. The Romans demolished Bonita, 92-24, while Gladstone nipped Ontario, 60-58.

In the Montview League, Baldwin Park crushed Rowland, 81-36.

Pomona, dedicating its meet to Jeff Syvrud after the Pomona sophomore broke his shoulder earlier this week while pole vaulting, named Arthur Hodges and Alonzo Brinson as the Red Devils' co-athletes of the meet.

Hodges won the long jump with a leap of 20-0, ran the second leg of Pomona's winning mile relay team, and finished second in the high jump.

Brinson was named for breaking up Chino's sprint domination, finished second in the 100 and providing the turning point in the meet.

Chino, as usual, kept the upper hand in the sprints as Jayson Law won the 100 in 10.0, Don Cossey captured the 220 in 22.5 and 440 in 50.8, and Don Notterman the half mile in 2:03.5.

But the trio of Barry Boettcher, Ed Davila and Ken Dent ran off with the distance races, and Andre Hall wrapped up both hurdles events.

With Pomona coach Gene Abernathy on the sidelines after knee surgery, the Red Devils have been coached by assistants Mike Phillips, Ed Taylor, Frank Hardy and John Corbett.

Montclair captured first places in nine of the 14 events against Claremont, with Filbert Gonzales claiming a double win.

Gonzales posted a 52-6-second clocking in the 440 and also won the long jump with a 20-6¼ mark. Along with his two individual wins, the Montclair athlete ran a leg on both of the Cavaliers' winning relay teams.

Upland had to sweep two of the last three events and win the mile relay in order to dump Damien.

The Highlanders were trailing the visiting Spartans, 53-42, with three varsity events remaining for the day.

Jim Ems, Frank Guevara and Mark Sorensen crossed the finish line at the same time (10:37.7) in the two mile for the sweep there. And then Mike Emilio led the Highlander sweep in the pole vault with a 14-0 mark.

Ron Ramirez was a triple winner for Damien, winning both hurdles and taking the long jump. He also ran the first leg on the Spartans' winning 440 relay team. Sprinter Ron Lamb came up with a double win for Damien, capturing both the 100 (10.1) and the 220 (23.3). He was also on the winning 440 relay team.

Bonita could only win two of the 14 events against Royal Oak, Marty Johnson captured the 120 high hurdles in 16.0 seconds, while LeRoy Johnson ran off with the long jump (21-0). Royal Oak swept the 100, 220, high jump, pole vault and shot put.

Rowland was somewhat in the same boat, winning the 440 relay, the high jump, the pole vault and the shot put.

Randy Araque was the key man for the Raiders, winning the pole vault with a 11-0 mark and running the first leg on the winning 440 relay team.

Citrus, Chaffey batter foes in Mission Conference games

Citrus and Chaffey colleges found life on the road to be a good one Thursday.

Eric Mustad hurled a two-hitter to lead Citrus to a 7-0 victory over Riverside City College. It was the second shutout for Mustad who struck out nine and walked four. Citrus now is 7-3 in the Mission Conference.

Down at Chula Vista, Gary Wagoner pitched and batted Chaffey to a 12-3 win over Southwestern. Wagoner, who extended his record to 3-0, slammed two doubles and a single and batted in three runs. On the mound, he struck out six and walked six.

In other games, San Bernardino Valley College outscored Saddleback, 10-6, and Grossmont edged San Diego, 3-2.

The Panthers stole four more bases in defeating Southwestern. That gives Howard Lowder's team 70 for the season and they have only been thrown out six times in 84 attempts.

Dennis Hawkins had two hits and stole one base. That gives Hawkins 22 steals in 23 attempts for the season. In league play, he is 11 for 12.

Other players credited with steals for Chaffey were Gary Sloan, Steve Young, and Mike Walters.

Joining the hitting parade were Dave Chavez who slashed a triple and a single and knocked in two runs, Sloan who batted in three with a double and single, Young who drove in a pair of runs with two singles, and Mark Berrier who had a triple and single and knocked in one run.

Both teams scored a run in the first inning. Chaffey went in front to stay with another run in the second and five in the third inning.

The Panthers now are 14-5 overall and 8-2 in the conference. Saturday, they host Grossmont.

The Citrus-Riverside game was scoreless for two innings. The Owls scored all the runs they really needed in the third.

With two out, Jerry Waters doubled. Phil Doktor singled scoring Waters. Gary Wiencek doubled to drive in Doktor. Dave Cates followed with the third two-base hit of the ining to score Wiencek.

The Owls struck suddenly again in the fifth. Waters walked and Doktor followed with a home run.

Wiencek and Cates each had three hits, a double and two singles. Doktor was the rbi leader with his homer and single accounting for three.

Citrus will host San Diego Saturday. Lefthander Jim Arkinson is slated to do the pitching. Arkison has not allowed any earned runs in his last 15 1-3 innings. He blanked Saddleback his last start.

Lop-sided series

BROOKLINE, Mass. (UPI) — The United States now leads Great Britain 38-7 in their international women's tennis series for the Wightman Cup. The Americans defeated the British here in August, 5-2, on the 50th anniversary of the naugural played at Forest Hills in 1923 and won by the United States, 7-0.

Montclair falls, 6-4

MONTCLAIR — Montclair High hit the baseball field for a make-up contest with Alta Loma Thursday, and the Cavaliers probably wish they hadn't as the Braves upended them 6-4.

The Vasquez brothers ganged up on Montclair in the win. Anthony Vasquez hurled the win with a seven-hit, route-going performance and also doubled home a run. Brother Peter had two hits and an RBI.

Mark Gosswiller absorbed the loss on the mound for the Cavs, who saw their season mark drop to 5-3. Mike Medeiros had a triple for the only Montclair extra-base hit.

The Cavaliers and Braves will both be back in league action Friday. Montclair will travel to Ganesha in a San Antonio League battle while Alta Loma squares off against Sierra Vista in a Hacienda League contest.

Bad passes

ATLANTA (UPI) — Linebacker Tommy Nobis has scored two touchdowns in the National Football League and each one cost him $100.

On both occasions Nobis threw the ball into the stands after reaching the end zones. This is a violation of NFL rules and brings an automatic $100 fine.

Palomares, Emerson post Baldy track wins

POMONA — Palomares and Emerson junior highs collected Mt. Baldy League track victories Thursday to remain unbeaten in league action.

Palomares knocked off Fremont, 54-32, and Emerson dropped Lorbeer, 60-25.

Karsem James was a double winner for Palomares, taking the 100 yard dash in 10.3 seconds and the 220 yard sprint in 23.7 seconds.

There were two school records set in the meet when Anthony Miley put the shot 48-10 and the Palomares quartet of Mike Keegan, William Warren, Billy Hunt and James ran the quarter mile relay in 47.0 seconds.

Palomares, now 3-0, will make up its rained out meet with Marshall Monday.

The top two performers for Emerson were Randy Olverei, won the 100 and was on the winning 440 relay team, and Albert Louis, who captured the 220 and also ran a leg on the relay team.

Emerson, now 4-0, hosts Palomares next Thursday.

Results of the Marshall-Simons meet were not reported Thursday.

Bowl record holder

ANAHEIM (UPI) — Bob Reynolds, executive of the California Angeles, holds the Rose Bowl playing-time record.

Reynolds a Stanford University tackle, played all 180 minutes on three Stanford Rose Bowl appearances in the early 1930's.

Star of tomorrow

So under that watchful eye of Ray, Pam started practicing. In fact she bowls every single day of the week, averaging around eight games a day. And as her bowling has increased, so has her averages.

She first broke into the Southern California bowling spotlight last season by capturing the State Queens title with a 589 three game series at Magnolia Lanes in Riverside. And then the scores really started popping.

In the Citrus Belt Tourney at Pom Lanes, she won the singles, doubles an all-events title (1883 for nine games) including her lifetime best of 256, 220 and 217 for 693 in the singles. This year she has added 688 and 683 totals and has an all-time high game of 268.

Pam has won titles at every major junior tournament in California but also shines at Chaffey where she is a math major. In fact she would rather become an algebra teacher than a professional bowler. At least right now she would.

"Bowling for a living would be too risky right now, especially for a woman," explained Pam. "You'd almost have to finish at the top of every tourney to be ahead. I'd like to experiment a little with pro bowling, but not as a living."

Ladies bowling is growing and improving every day — just like Pam Dusek and what may be the "sport of the future" has a star on its horizon in the Ontario righthander.

Eight survive 2 Airlines rounds

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — After sitting and watching the rain come down for the better part of two days, the field in the $150,000 American Airlines tennis Classic were put through two rounds of work Thursday and at the end of it all eight men lived to fight on for the title.

Brian Gottfried of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. and Bob Lutz, the San Clemente, Calif. doubles specialist who missed much of last season because of injury, were two unfamiliar names among the survivors, otherwise it was much as the seeding committee wished it to be.

Favored John Newcombe and his Aussie sidekick Rod Laver; South Africa's Cliff Drysdale, Holland's Tom Okker; Stan Smith of Sea Pines, S.C. and Miami's Arthur Ashe completed the last eight.

The best match of the day was the unseeded Drysdale's 6-4, 6-4, dispatch of third seeded Ken Rosewall, the 39-year-old Aussie lacking just that bit of pace after being asked to play twice in one day.

Rosewall's lack of tournament play also was evident against a man who won the Miami WCT event and who reached the finals in Washington last week.

"It's really a disadvantage playing Kenny because he's such a favorite with the crowd," said Drysdale. "There was little question who most of them were backing. He's one of the sport's greatest men, without a doubt."

Newcombe moved into the quarter-finals by defeating Harold Solomon of Silver Springs, Md., 6-4, 6-3; Okker, the second seed, beat Ove Bengtson of Sweden, 4-6, 7-5, 7-5; Gottfried beat Alan Stone of Australia, 62, 6-2; Smith beat Jaime Fillol of Chile, 7-6, 6-2; Laver beat Adriano Panatta of Italy, 6-2, 64; Ashe beat Gerald Battrick of Britain 6-1, 6-2; Lutz beat Milan Holecek of Germany 7-6, 6-4, and Okker beat Ove Bengston of Sweden, 4-6, 7-5, 7-5.

Whittingham has favorite in 'Cap

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI) — Trainer Charlie Whittingham saddles his third straight favorite for the $113,000 San Luis Rey Stakes Saturday with Bwamazon Farm's Quack heading a field of 11 in the 1-½ mile grass test at Santa Anita. All the entrants must carry 126 pounds in the event, which will be Quack's first tour over the turf since being nosed out at the wire in the Lakeside Handicap at Hollywood Park last spring.

In Thursday's featured $13,000 Starters Handicap at 1½ miles on the turf, Early Light finished first and Happy Behave and Savage Kitten closed to a deadheat for second.

Early Light paid $13, $5.80 and $5.60, Happy Behave returned $5.80 and $8 and Savage Kitten paid $2.80 and $3.20.

Quack, with jockey Don Pierce aboard, will be facing defending champion Big Spruce and such outstanding turf comers as Court Ruling, Captain Cee Jay and Wichita Oil in the weight-for-age classic.

Four of the entrants could make the prestigious event their third stakes victory of the meet.

Astray won the San Gabriel and a division of the San Luis Obispo, Captain Cee Jay captured divisions of the Camino Real and San Luis Obispo, and just last Saturday Wichita Oil and Court Ruling swept divisions of the San Bernardino Handicap.

Also in contention will be Madison Palace who broke badly but finished strong against Court Ruling. Rounding out the field will be turf specialist Acclimatization, Quack's stablemate El Rey, Barrytown and Kentukian.

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (UPI) — Moberly (Mo.), the only team to win four National Junior College Basketball Tournameint championships, settled into a semifinal berth Thursday night by defeating Vincennes (Ind.), 63-59 in the 1974 tourney.

The Greyhounds tonight face Chipola (Fla.) which knocked off a cold-shooting New York City Community College, 73-55. In the other night semifinal game Northeast Oklahoma A&M faces Mercer County (N.J.).

Moberly, under the 20-point leadership of John Gordon, built up a 12-point lead early in the second half, then spent the remainder of the match staving off a Vincennes advance. Vincennes leader Ricky Green, who totaled 17, brought his team to within two points, 59-57, but Moberly held on in the final minutes for the win.

In other Thursday night action, San Jacinto (Tex.), at one time building a 36-point lead, was on top all the way to defeat Normandale (Minn.), 109-81, in consolation play. The lead changed hands 17 times before Grand View (Iowa) took over and ran for a 79-59 victory over Northeastern Colorado.

Arizona Western, led by Carl Bird with 25, defeated Alexander City (Ala.) 84-75, while a 34-point explosion by Marion Hillard boosted Copiah-Lincoln (Miss.) to a 106-92 win over Niagara County (N. Y.) in losers' play.

Top trotters divided for feature at Los Al

LOS ALAMITOS — Tonight's Inglewood Trot has attracted a total of 15 of the finest throtters on the West Coast, forcing Racing Secretary John Jenuine to split the race into two $6,500 divisions to be run as the fifth and seventh races at Los Alamintos Race Course.

Post time for the first race is 7:45 p.m. as the Southern California Racing Association begins its third weekend of night harness racing at the Orange County oval.

In addition to the trotting event, eight high-priced claimers will collide in the eighth race headed by Arriva Byrd, Brookwood Duane and Flash On Pick and the fourth race brings out Inaugural Pace winner Green Kash.

Track record-holder Baldwin and defending champion 3-year-old trotting filly in California Lumber Starlet will head up the second division while Fromming Hanover appears the probable betting choice in the first division.

Baldwin, who will be driven by Jack Bailey, set the Los Alamitos tract trotting record on April 24 when he covered the mile in 2:02.1 on California's only five-eighth mile track.

The 6-year-old son of Ayres is winless this year in five starts but shows two seconds and one third to his credit, all at Bay Meadows. In his first Los Alamitos race, Baldwin finished fourth back of J.R. Salem on a sloppy track.

Lumber Starlet won 12 of 29 races last year and earned more than $63,000 as a 3-year-old. The Ed Schafer speedster won five of five races during last spring's meeting but finally went down to defeat in his first start here this year, finishing a disappointing sixth behind Fromming Hanover after forcing the pace most of the way.

Jack Williams will be in the bike.

Sports news in brief

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Frank Duarte, 119, dominating from the opening bell, scored a fifth round knockout over Frank Granados, 117 ½, Mexicali, Mexico, in a scheduled 10-round bantamweight fight at the Olympic Auditorium Thursday night.

There were no knockdowns or cuts in the fight, but the Los Angeles fighter mastered Granados from the beginning with repeated leftright combinations and devastating left hooks.

Granados was almost unconscious and helpless against the ropes when referee Rudy Jordan stopped the fight with 55 seconds to go in the fifth round.

The win, Duarte's first in a main event, gave him 10 knockouts and an 11-0 record. Granados is now 16-6.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Albert Davila, 114, scored a seventh round knockout over Mario Rogelio, 114, of Mexicali, Mexico, in a lopsided scheduled 10-round bantamweight fight at the Olympic Auditorium Thursday night.

Davila, a light puncher but a sharp boxer, closed Rogelio's badly bleeding right eye before referee Larry Rozadilla stopped the fight at 2:44.

The win was Davila's third knockout and he now has a record of 11-3. Rogelio is now 14-3.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Earl Stutz, Norfolk, Va., grabbed the singles lead in the American Bowling Congress Tournament Thursday with a 755 series.

Stutz, 27, a 275-pound mechanical systems designer who had never rolled a 600 series before, put together games of 270, 237 and 248 to take the lead from Gary Cunningham, Syracuse, N.Y., by one pin.

Stutz is a member of the Bay Jewelers team from Norfolk that three years ago won the Booster Team title in Detroit.

In doubles competition Wednesday night, Stutz had a 599 series.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Two local bantamweights scored decisive knockouts Thursday night against Mexican Mexico opponents in two scheduled 10round bouts at the Olympic Auditorium.

Frank Duarte, 119, in his first 10-round main event, scored a fifth round knockout over Frank Granados, 117 ½, by mastering Granados with punishing left-right combinations and devastating left hooks. The referee stopped the fight at 2:05 of the fifth with Granados helpless on the ropes.

In the second main event, Albert Davila, 114, scored a seventh round knockout over Mario Rogelio, 114. The fight was stopped at 2:44 of the seventh when sharp punching Davila closed Rogelio's right eye.

Duarte's win, his 10th knockout, gave him a 11-0 record, while Davila's third knockout boosted his record to 11-3. Granados is now 16-6 and Rogelio is 14-3.

Lambs, Capps share Valley soccer lead

CLAREMONT — The Pomona Valley Soccer League finished its fourth week of action with the Lambs and the Andy Capps tied for the lead with 2-0-1 marks.

The Lambs, the highest scoring team with 14 goals, easily handled the Studs, 5-1, last week with Ken Mabie leading the way with two goals. Meanwhile, the Andy Capps outlasted the Bulls, 5-3, behind the play of Doc Davis and Dave Goldstein. Closing out the action, the Smears came back on John Evans' goal to tie the Buzzards, 1-1.

Games are played at 10 a.m., noon and 2 p.m. on Sundays at La Puerta Intermediate School in Claremont.

"The league appears very even this year," says president Pete Liptai. "We worked hard setting up the teams this year, with the thought that equal teams would provide more fun for the players and better games overall."

Claremont team gets home game

31 years in Congress

Perpetual calendar perpetually pushed

By TOM TIEDE

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Congress is often accused of lassitude in deliberating the great issues of the day but Willard Edwards says its sluggishness in consideration of his own personal great issues, has been ridiculous. Edwards has proposed a revision of the world's calendar. Congress has considered it now for 31 years.

Edwards, of Hawaii, first proposed his "perpetual calendar" to Congress in 1943. Rep. Patsy Mink (D-Hawaii) is the current sponsor and sources say it remains off the list of priority legislation.

Edward's idea would scrap the present calendar system which he describes as imperfect and illogical. He proposes a chart divided into four quarters of 91 days apiece, each quarter beginning on Monday and ending Sunday and each having two months of 30 days and one of 31.

His calendar fixes holidays—Christmas would always be on Monday, Dec. 25, Easter always on Sunday, April 14. His New Year's Day would be January zero — a kind of non-existent day, a world holiday, not part of the month.

Why a new calendar? The way it is now, Edwards says, "Every year is different and confusing. Each new year, schools, airlines and others have to make new schedules to meet the new calendar. My plan is more practical. It would be the same year after year."

Despite congressional lethargy concerning the calendar, Edwards, age 70, has managed to milk some related response from the nation's lawmakers. He was a prime mover behind the present three-day weekend system of national holidays. He also reports some progress in the institutionalizing of a new holiday—"President's Day."

But the perpetual calendar is his chief concern. He has used the mails, and a tireless compulsion, to bring the calendar idea to the attention of people in more than 100 countries, most of them apparently even less disposed than Congress to worry about it.

He says he will not give up. The obsession gives him something to do in retirement. Besides, as he travels around, he is able to advance another theory of his: that besides the new calendar, the U.S. could also use a new coin, which he calls the 2½-cent piece—uh, but that's another story.

One headache nets another

NEW CUMBERLAND, W. Va. (UPI) — Richard A. Coffman, 27, may have to pay dearly for a drink. He had to break out of jail to do it, and was free only seven hours.

Coffman, of Steubenville, Ohio, escaped recently when he and two other inmates overpowered a deputy sheriff who had entered the cellblock area to bring Coffman an aspirin.

The officer managed to hold back his two cohorts, but Coffman got away. He was picked up seven hours later after police received a tip.

Charge by congressmen:

Code on discharges brands ex-servicemen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two Congressmen have charged that the military places derogatory codes on honorable discharges that release servicemen because of anything from "unsuitability" to "bed wetting."

The congressmen said the codes "could ruin a young person's life because most employers know what they mean and look for numbers when someone applies for a job."

Reps. Les Aspin, D-Wisc., and Edward Koch, D-Wash., said the practice was "a national disgrace."

They said the military gave "honorable discharges" last year to more than 35,000 servicemen, but put on the papers coded numbers labeling them unsuitable.

Aspin said the coding "is an out-and-out punitive measure used by the military to get at ex-GIs who were guilty of no crime at all except failing to be model soldiers."

Heard Koch said the coding on discharges have become public, and "the consequent invasion of privacy may never end for a veteran with a prejudicial (designation)."

Aspin said both the Selective Service and Veterans Administration have acknowledged in letters to him that the numbers are unnecessary.

The congressmen said they would sponsor legislation to force the military to eliminate the number coding to prevent a man from being "branded for life by a little number that represented nothing more than his commander's personal opinion."

The Lighter Side

Heat from vegetables in the future?

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Upon reading that food shortages are impending, I went out and cleared off a space in the back yard. Then I planted a row of spinach and a half-row each of lettuce and radishes.

I felt so good about this I called the kid out to see what I had done.

"Some day," I said, making a sweeping gesture, "this will all be yours."

"What will all be mine, old timer?"

"This land."

"Are you talking about that little place where you dug up the grass?"

"I am talking about your inheritance," I said. "I am talking about the soil that I have cultivated by the sweat of my brow."

The kid said, "You got me up from 'Wide World of Sports' to tell me I am going to inherit a row of spinach?"

No wonder famine threatens. Young people today have no feel for the land, for tillage and husbandry. Most have never stood like a colossus bestride a row of scallions nor know the deep satisfaction that comes from a rich harvest of parsley. More important, they lack vision.

Yet therein lies the future not only for nourishment but for overcoming fuel shortages. Let me tell you something that may amaze you.

Bananas give off waves of metabolic heat when they are freshly picked. For example, a 60,000-pound cargo of bananas generates about 8,000,000 British thermal units per hour.

That is about the same amount of heat that you would get from a third of a ton of coal.

Moreover, newly plucked bananas emit a certain quantity of ethylene gas, which has been used both for illumination and as an anesthetic.

At present, the energy produced by bananas as they ripen goes to waste. But I'm sure you can grasp the potential.

If the means can be found for harnessing banana power, a whole new world of energy will open up.

Unfortunately, bananas don't grow well in this country. And certainly we don't want to become dependent on Central America for fuel in the way we have become partially dependent on the Middle East.

In its quest for new energy sources, the government would do well to underwrite a research project to determine the metabolic heat output of U.S. fruits and vegetables.

Call me a dreamer if you must, but as I stood there gazing upon my newly planted vegetable garden I could envison myself heating my house with cauliflower from my own back yard.

Not like TV dramas

Murders seldom solved in 60 minutes by real police

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

SAN FRANCISCO — (NEA) — It was a hell of a week for Ed Erdelatz and Frank McCoy, homicide detail, San Francisco Police Department.

It started on a Monday morning and ended the next Sunday night with the largest number of reported murders, 10 in any seven-day period in the history of this boisterous city.

Eddie Erdelatz, Jr., called me at 1:50 p.m. on Monday. I knew Eddie, Jr., was a detective in homicide. Anyone who has watched "Streets of San Franciso" or "Macmillan and Wife" or "Ironside"-all Bay-based TV shows—figures it's a glamorous detail.

Eddie and Frank McCoy are a team, just like Karl Malden and Michael Douglas are fictionally.

"We got one," said Ed from his phone at the Hall of Justice downtown on Bryant. "Pick you in 10 minutes." They were "on" this week, which meant any murder was first assigned to them.

They drove up in a light blue Ford, unmarked, Frank at the wheel, and in a couple of minutes we were at 1966 Pacific, a modern apartment building overlooking San Francisco Bay.

One floor up we walked into a small apartment. Already there were the coroner and a police photographer, two investigators from the crime lab and Lt. Charley Ellis, homicide.

Still in a chair in front of the dining room table, tilted grotesquely over the left arm, blood spattered all over his white shirt, bedroom slippers dangling from his lifeless feet in a state of early rigor mortis, was the victim. Samuel Harry Edelman, a retired jeweler.

The voilence of his death had spattered blood in a rainbow pattern across the ceiling and flung drops on furniture 10 feet away. A bath mat next to the chair was soaked throughly red and showed the foot imprints of his assailant.

An 86-year-old neighbor unpstaris had opened the door-she had keys to the apartment—to let in a couple of realtors who had an appointment with the victim. They discovered the body.

His blood-spotted eye glasses were still on the floor near his feet. So were a coupel of rings. Nothing had been touched by the investigators.

"I think he was tortured," said the coroner, Dr. Ervin Jindrich, peering closely at the dead man's head.

"What do you think, Frank?" asked Lt. Ellis, who got there quickly because he was in his car when the dall came over the police radio.

"It look pretty bad," said McCoy. "His throat is slashed."

"This is a whodunit," said Ellis professionally. "It's unusual to torture a man in his own home. It's been a bad month."

There were 17 murders in San Francisco in January, an all-time record, plus one justifiable homicide. Since 1968, with the advent of Haight-Ashbury and the drug scene and a drastic change in the mores of the city, San Francisco has been averaging more than 100 homicides a year. In 1973, there were 103. Thirty per cent of them remain unsolved.

(For contrast, in the entire year of 1957, there were 33 murders, all of them solved by the police.)

This looked like it would be unsolved.

The apartment was a trove of antiques and oil paintings, valuable china and gold-leafed furniture. "Stuff's got to be worth a hundred thousand," said the coroner.

"Mike," said Ed Erdelatz to one of hhe crime lab men dusting the apartment for finger prints, "did you print those two guys unstairs?" They were the real estate men who had come to discuss the sale of a 36-apartment unit owned by the victim.

"They'll keep." No finger prints showed up on the door casings or knobs or wooden surfaces. A study off the kitchen had been ransacked. There were also signs of disarray in the bedroom. But none of the objects d'art had been disturbed.

In the kitchen was the Sunday paper, which might be a clue to time of death. Also a dozen oranges still in a sack. And an old copy of Playboy.

A crime lab man found a passport in the study's rubble. Edelman was born Dec. 10, 1909, in Hungary. There was also a will with a lawyer's name.

Now the work begins," said Lt. Ellis. He left, putting his young inspectors, Erdelatz and McCoy, in charge.

The San Francisco Police Department has eight, two-man teams working the homicide detail. Erdelatz, 32, and McCoy, 31, are the youngest, and this particular week they were possibly the busiest.

Eddie's father, now deceased, was the head football coach at the U.S. Naval Academy and the first coach of the Oakland Raiders. Eddie played a year of football at San Jose State, quit to go into the service and 10 years ago decided to become a cop.

He walked a beat on North Beach, worked a radio car on Fisherman's Wharf, went to the vice squad and three years ago applied for the homicide detail when he heard two inspectors had suffered heart attacks. He got it.

McCoy, his partner, came on a couple of months later. He's native of the city and needs only one more semester to get his degree at the University of San Francisco. He jcined the force eight-and-half years ago, walked a beat on Fillmore in the ghetto, spent two-and-a-half years on the burglary detail as an undercover man in civilian clothes and then was tranferred to homicide.

At 6-5, Frank is half a foot taller than Ed. They're both clean cut and athletic. They dress for work like young businessmen. On this day, McCoy wore a gray plaid suit with a striped, button-down shirt and a solid dark blue tie. His shoes were winged-tip. Erdelatz had on a herringbone sports coat, gray slacks, white shirt and ankle high boots.

While Erdelatz checked out the building where the murdered jeweler, lived, and tried to find some neighbors, McCoy called the dead man's lawyer.

"Yes," hs said simply, "it looks like he was murdered. What were his personal habits?. . . .Where there ever any threats?.

Ed reported no signs of forcible entry. A neighbor was home but wouldn't talk. "You're going to need some help on this one," said the police photographer.

"Sometimes," said Ed, "we make a case overnight. Especially if it's a smoking, gun."

(A "smoking gun" is a crime of passion.)

"Sometimes," he shrugged, "it takes six or seven months. This was not a routine burglary. I hope we get lucky."

By 4 p.m., after two hours at the scene, they drove back to the Hall of Justice and went up to the fourth floor-Room 450, Homicide. Erdelatz went over to a computer and did a make on the license number of the dead man's car which was still in the garage. The computer keys came back clattering from Sacramento in 10 seconds. It was Edelman's car.

McCoy called the victim's nearest living relative, a niece in Indiana. "I've got some bad news for you," he said over the phone. "I sorry to tell you this. It concerns your uncle."

Pause.

"You sure you've okay? It

Russ customs men praised by newspaper

MOSCOW (UPI) — At Moscow's Sheremetyevo Airport shortly after the arrival of a flight from the West, customs officers A. Sharayev and R. Shafaranova are on alert.

The customs officials eye the fur and sheepskin coats worn by the Westerners, mostly tourists. As the travelers wait for their baggage, some look around and ask questions.

"When will the inspection of our luggage start?" one asks impatiently, according to the account in the army newspaper Krasnaya Zvezda.

"Will inspection be on a selective basis or will everyone be checked?" asks another, showing signs of nervousness.

These are telltale signs and the experienced customs officers immediately recognize them, the newspaper said.

By the time their inspection is finished, Sharayev and Shafaranova have done their job well. They found nine tourists who were illegally trying to bring in about 2,500 pieces of anti Soviet literature in various languages of the Soviet Union.

"Certainly the travelers were aware that this literature could not be permitted to be brought here, but still they tried," the newspaper said. The customs officers had successfully thwarted an attempt to "poison the souls of our people."

The newspaper did not say so, but the list of published material that travelers are barred from bringing into the Soviet Union is not limited to literature that is openly hostile to the regime.

It ranges all the way from Playboy magazine to the Bible and includes most Western newspapers and magazines and books by Soviet writers that have only been published abroad.

The theme of the Krasnaya Zvezda article was a familiar one to Soviet newspaper readers. Periodically there are such tales in the press extolling the virtues of customs inspectors and border guards and warning of foreigners with antiSoviet intentions.

Of the customs officers, Krasnya Zvezda said:

"They work shoulder to shoulder each day demonstrating vigilance not to be lulled by anything. In their important work they possess a strong sense of responsibility, high professionalism, resourcefulness and the ability to make the right decision instantly."

It told of another customs man who caught two foreigners trying to smuggle in gold coins and foreign currency secreted in the soles of their shoes. Their awkward walk, as if they had flat feet, gave them away.

"Customs officers at Sheremetyevo are no amateurs," the report said.

The newspaper summed up: "Soviet hosts welcome all those who step over the threshold with good and pure wishes, but propaganda crooks, smugglers of all categories, all those who are trying to penetrate our country with evil intentions today, tomorrow and always will have to deal with the utmost politeness and utmost vigilance of workers of Soviet frontier and customs services."

Nixon restores diplomatic tie with Sweden

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has decided to restore diplomatic relations with Sweden, and has named the ambassador to Belgium, Robert Strauz-Hupe, to ambassdor to Stockholm.

Diplomatic relations were broken off in 1972 when Swedish Prime Minister Olof Palme vigorously denounced U.S. bombing of North Vietnam.

Since then, the United States has been represented in Sweden only by the senior embassy official, Arthur J. Olson. White House Deputy Press Secrretary Gerald L. Warren said the United States would welcome a Swedish ambassador as he is named.

Warren said Nixon had named Straus-Hupe as ambassador in the belief that it was in the best interests of the United States to restore full diplomatic relations with Sweden.

Murders not always solved

appears he was murdered by persons unknown to us."

Erdelatz started a case folder.

"Was it a ripe one?" asked Inspector John Fotinos. "If its's ripe, it's rreally rough." he meant the smell if a death has gone unrreported several days.

The other inspectors in the homicide squad room showed a lively, comradely interest in the case of Erdelatz and McCoy. A case of mutual interest. Over the weekend, the "bag killer" had been arrested for shooting two strangers (through a paper bag) in the delusive belief he was avenging the rape of his girl friend.

"He'll go to the puzzle factory, that guy," said Erdelatz

The phone rang on the next desk. Rotea Gilford, a black inspector, picked it up. It was his cousin. "The only time you hear from relatives in this business," he said, "they're in trouble."

Gilford and his partner, Earl Sanders, were the backup team to Erdelatz-McCoy this week. They are the only blacks in the homicide detail. The backup team swings into action when the work load piles up on the assigned team. They were destined to get a couple of cases.

At 4:30 p.m., McCoy and Erdelatz headed down to the coroner's office for an examination of the corpse. "This is the part I don't like," said Erdelatz.

McCoy, however, had a real clinical interest. "He wanted to be a doctor," snorted Ed. Actually, most detecitives don't bother visiting the cornorer's office, but McCoy felt that by seeing the wounds, after the body was washed down, he could better tell what kind of weapon was used. It's not a room for quessy stomachs.

The corpse was on a flat cart with an identifying block of letters. SF CO Case 198 Samuel Edelman 1-28-74.

"He's all cut up," said Jim Scannell of the coroner's office. "I guess he died some time yesterday."

The insepctors had seen enough. "We'll go back and talk to the neighbors," said Ed. "People talk."

That night, they rang doorbbells and interviewed people. They eventually counted 63. "We didn't expect to get anything," said Ed, "and we didn't. But it had to be done.

They were back at the office at 10:30 p.m., ready to pack it in, when all hell broke loose in San Francisco. Two men, striking in five different parts of the city, shot to death four persons and seriously wounded a fifth in attacks without any provocation. Tremors of fear ran through the city. Erdelatz and McCoy stayed on duty until 2-50 a.m., channeling phone calls in a city-wide Operation Zebra to search for the killers.

The mass murders dominated the news. But below the fold, on the front page of the morning newspaper, there was still a headline: GORY KILLING IN PACIFIC HEIGHTS.

At 7:15 a.m. Tuesday, the day after Edelman as found murdered in his apartment, Erdelatz and McCoy were back on the job-searching for the murderer.

The dead man's niece had flown in from the midwest and the inspectors took her to the apertment where her uncle was killed. Nothing of value was apparently missing. The assailant left behind cash and a coin collection and gold. Still in place was a small antique desk appraised at $20,000.

"We're no closer to a solution," said Erdelatz late that afternoon, "than we were last night."

The slain man it had been discovered, was also a slum landlord who had some squabbles with tenants. It opened a new avenue of investigation. More interviews. More door bells rung. Until midnight.

As assistant inspectors, with one rank to go, Erdelatz and McCoy are each paid $16,200 annually. The extra hours they send on the job is paid in straight time. Last year, Ed's W-2 form shows he totalled $21,000 in pay.

He is married and has five children, ages 3 to 12. He has to pay his own medical plan, $80 per month, plus another $80 for retirement pension. He owns a home on the peninsula south of San Francisco. He's not getting rich on the job.

"Occasionally," said Ed, "we get a little heat from inspectors on other details because compared to them we make more overtime. But we really do put in the hours. Even a lot of the policemen don't realize this."

Frank, who has three children and a home in Marin County north of the city, has to moonlight to balance his budget. He's a security consultant for The Cannery, a renovated complex for tourism.

The essential fact about their lives is that they like being homicide inspectors.

"To get an interesting homicide case," said Ed, "and I think this one we're on right now is interesting, to start with nothing and be able to solve it is different from any other line of work. It is challenging."

"If we don't solve it," nodded Frank, "nobody's going to solve it. Not only solve it but have enough evidence to make a decent case in court for the prosectuion attorney."

"Sometimes," added Ed, "you get on a murder case in which there is no family at all. You're the last two people in the world who really care about him."

On Wednesday morning, they inherited such a case. A man had been found dead in the Tenderloin district on Taylor Street the night before. The crime lab and photo lab had responded to it Not until the autopsy the next morning did they find a head injury and marks on the throat.

"It's now been classified as a murder," said Erdelatz. "The television set is missing."

They spent almost all of Wednesday working the second case. The man was a homosexual. They spent that night combing the gay bars in Tenderloin.

"We want to stay on the second one," said Ed. "While peoples' memories are still hot. Then we'll go back to the Edelman case."

They felt no sense of danger in their work. Each carries a .357 magnum revolver in a hip holster, but in their three years on the detail they've never had to fire them. "Tney guy in the black and white car who doesn't know what he's going to run into," said Ed, "faces the danger in police work."

By Thursday night, they had talked to 45 people in the Tenderloin and had one suspect, the man's roomate, who failed a lie detector test, but no concrete evidence. Clues still filtered in on Edelman. A knife was discovered in a garbage pail a couple of blocks away. Rust made it an unlikely murder weapon. Gloves found in the apartment checked out with prints on an empty jewelry box. Phone records were searched-Edelman had a mysterious appointment with a man from a nearby city the night he was slain.

And then on Friday night, in Hunter's Point, a black ghetto, a 19-year-old husband was stabbed to death by an unknown assailant. Erdelatz and McCoy had a third murder investigation to juggle.

They worked through the weekend, averaging three hours of sleep, without any solid leads turning up. On Monday morning, another team came on to handle new cases. But Ed and Frank weren't through. They were back in the office, too, Monday morning.

"So far," muttered Frank, "we're zero for three."

On a supporting column a few feet from their joint desk in Romm 450, Homicide, a simple sign is tacked up. It reads: "City Zoo."

Part of brain gone, victim pens diary

MOSCOW (UPI) — Lev Zasetsky was an army officer in 1943 when an enemy bullet blew away part of his brain.

A total amnesiac since, he has nevertheless struggled to produce a 3,000-page diary that Soviet scientists say has given new insight into treatment of amnesia and other psychoneurological problems.

"All who know Zasetsky... cannot but admire his personality, his strong will, and his thirst for intellectual life," said Prov. Alexander Luria, who treated him and made him the subject of his widely translated book, "A World Lost and Regained."

Luria told the Tass news agency that Zasetsky originally lost all ability to speak, write, count and express thoughts and was piecing together the diary from "fragments or reminiscences which come to mind and disappear right away.

"Very often he cannot even read what he has written himself because he sees only separate syllables and not whole words, and reading for him is an agonizing process," Luria said.

He said doctors first started trying to restore Zasetskys mind by teaching him the most basic knowledge.

"This knowledge remains uncertain and unstable," he went on. "There is no memory, and thoughts and notions of things disappear...fall into an abyss, mindlessness."

Luria said the diary was the main thing keeping Zasetsky alive.

He said it demonstrated the "importance of an exertion of will" in battling cases of brain damage.

A 4-year-old prompts tune

Milton Drake's 4-year-old daughter Nelia came home from kindergarten one day, saying, "Cowzy tweet and sowzy tweet and liddle sharksy doisters." Fascinating, said Milton. He promptly put down on paper a few slurred phrases of his own. And the eventual upshot was 1943's nifty nonsense song "Mairzy Doats."

Q — "Was the famous marriage of Priscilla and John Alden a happy one?"

A — Must have been. Priscilla had 11 children, did all her own housework, left no record of complaint.

FAT MAN

This husband dieted to lose 60 pounds. His wife insisted on it. Too bad. He'd been a fairly easygoing sort when heavy, but turned into an angry thin man. First, he accused her of stealing money. Then, of stepping out on him. Finally, he slapped her around some, and she divorced him. So he gave up the diet, regained the 60 pounds, and now associates say he's a gentle soul again. In analyzing his case, the medical experts contend he proves some men must stay overwieght to keep their mental balance.

Virgin, 17, asks advice

By JEAN ADAMS

HIGH JOHN: (Q.) How can I prove to John that I love him without having sex with him? He wants to and in a way I want to, too, but I am a virgin and don't know exactly what to do.

My mother does not want me to see him at all. He and she had a talk and he was high and said some things he shouldn't have said. Mother advised me to gradually break off with him, but I can't.

He quit school but has a good, steady job, and is making good money. He wants us to get married later. How can I get my mother to change her mind about him?—17 in Indiana

(A.) Even though she may not know about the sex debate, your mother senses that John is not a good long-range prospect for you, and I agree with her.

I advise you to take her advice.

BROTHERS' FRIENDS: (Q.) Both of my brothers have their friends over quite often. My brothers are 17 and 15 years old, but some of the boys they like are around my age, which is 14.

What should I do when they are here? Sometimes they talk to me. Other times I watch them play games, etc. Should I keep doing this or should I stay in my room until they leave? — Little Sister in New Jersey

(A.) There is no harm in your being friendly with your brothers' friends so long as they are friendly with you and your brothers do not object.

Too much acid may spoil worm's soil

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: Rescued from a fisherman friend of mine, Bob and Alice, my two earthworms, are presently residing in a coffee can. I'd like to set them up in much larger quarters and am wondering because of convenience, if I could use peat moss for this?—T.A

Dear T.A.: Bob and Alice wouldn't make it in peat moss. Not for long, anyway. It's much too acid (pH about 3.5)). The desired pH of approximately 7 or 7.5 can be achieved with the addition of hydrated lime, though it would be easy to underdo or overdo the mix. You would still have to gradually add water to achieve a 30 per cent moisture content.

Better than the above would be ordinary soil, nonpolluted, preferably light, sandy and free of lumps, stones and foreign bodies. Before using, though, it is a good idea to air-dry it for several days to help eliminate possible parasites or predators waiting to do in Bob and Alice. You would then want to remoisten the dirt back to that 30 per cent moisture content. (While the above soil preparation is ideal, many Lumbricidae live it up and do well under less controlled conditions.)

DEAR DR. MILLER: Garters, our cat, is supposed to be on a special diet but we've never been able to get her to eat it. We have to board her for three weeks and figure this will be an ideal time to get her eating that stuff because somebody else can make her do it. We are going to take along her special diet and tell them to feed her nothing else. My husband wants to tell the cat people what we are doing but I don't think they would fuss with her anyway and might not even try to feed her her special diet if we told them the whole story. Is there any need to?—V.E.

Dear V.E.: Admittedly, it would be convenient to have someone else solve your problem for you. Odds are it won't work. A fussy cat is likely to be even more so when away from home. While it is extremely rare for a dog to starve rather than eat a food it doesn't like, some cats actually do so.

A cat stressed by being placed in new surroundings needs all the help it can get to maintain its nutrition and resistance. This is definitely not the time to try to force it to switch diets. There is no harm in asking the cattery people to give it a try. They can offer the new food first. (There are rare occasions when pampered pussycats will eat better in strange surroundings.) It certainly would be a mistake not to inform the cat people about this and any other problem you might have with Garters.

Housing starts show another monthly rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Housing starts rose in February for the second consecutive month, according to the Commerce Department, and federal housing officials said that they now believe the worst of the building slump is over.

The department said starts increased by 22 per cent in February to an annual rate of 1.8 million units. Construction of single family homes rose by an even more impressive 30 per cent.

Officials said this indicated the housing decline had "bottomed out." That would be good news for the administration, which contends the current business decline will be mild and relatively brief.

Despite optimism, however, the February housing starts figure was 26 per cent below a year earlier, when the starts ran at an annual rate of 2.4 million units.

The department said housing construction picked up in all regions of the country last month with the largest gains being recorded in the South and West.

It also said building permits stood at an annual rate of 1.3 million in February compared with 1.3 million in January. This was far below the February, 1973, rate of 2.3 million permits.

Planting

Get out blueprints

By PAT McCORMACK
UPI Family Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — At planting time, get out the garden blueprint or plan you worked up indoors during cold weather.

You will have at your fingertips: packets of seeds, tiny plants from the garden center or grown indoors by you. You also may have some of the newer seeding things—like Burpee's seed tape, available in 20-foot lengths. These have seeds scientifically spaced to insure vigorous emergence and eliminates a lot of the thinning chores later. The tapes can be cut in quarters or halves.

Another seeding thing is a seed stick. This looks like an icecream bar stick with a pointy end—to make it easier to poke it into the ground. The stick contains seed.

Ahead of time you will have marked off the garden according to your blueprint, using little stakes and the cord or twine.

Follow directions

Lay out straight rows, using the string between two stakes. Make shallow furrows with a hoe or by pressing a board or rake handle into the ground. Or you can use a trowel tip.

When using seed packets, simply follow packet directions.

Horticulturists say both flowers and vegetables do best if they are sown inside from six to 10 weeks ahead of outdoor planting time. If interested in this approach, start seeds inside around mid-March in most cold parts of the country.

More and more gardeners get a headstart with seedlings. The seedlings often are put in shallow wooden boxes, called flats, when they have one or two pairs of leaves.

Some Tips

Some gardeners put them in individual peat pots which can later be planted directly in the garden. As peat pots deteriorate they help condition the garden soil.

In its helpful guide, Gardening for Pleasure, the Burpee people give these additional tips:

—About a week before putting seedlings in the garden, toughen them by gradually exposing them to more air and a lower temperature. They should also be watered less from then on.

—If you have a cold frame—a rectangular wooden box frame with glass on top outdoors—use that. If not, move the seeding to a warm, sunny and protected place outside. If heavy frost is predicted at night, you may need to bring seedlings in at night. Or—shelter them with newspapers, burlap or baskets placed upside down over them.

—A child's wagon or a wheelbarrow also is handy for holding flats and pots of seedling. Wheel them out into the sun in daytime, back into a garage or shed at night.

—An hour or more before you transplant into your garden, water the flats or containers well, letting them drain. This reduces wilt and shock.

—With a trowel or knife, carefully lift seedlings and reset them about the same depth they grew before. If the stems seem too long and spindly, set them a bit deeper. Press the soil around the roots carefully and water well.

—Newly transplanted seedlings need to be shaded during the hottest part of the day and protected from strong wind until roots have taken hold. An inverted flower pot or basket will do it.

—Cultivate shallowly around plants every week or so to keep soil in good condition and kill weeds while they are small.

—To conserve moisture and keep weeds down, cover ground around plants with a four to six-inch layer of straw, peat or grass clippings. Black plastic mulch, described in the Burpee catalog, actually will induce earlier ripening of melons, cucumbers and squash.

Back to Nature

In "How to Grow Your Own Vegetables" (Meredith, Creative Home Library), author Michael Kressy suggests you keep notes on what you do. List the crop, variety, amount planted, date planted and date and amount of harvest—plus comments.

Crops for beginners might include 20 feet of corn, beds of zucchini, squash. Also: 10 feet of pole beans—green and lima; 10 feet by three feet of tomato plants with stakes; peas, followed by carrots and beets; swisschard, lettuce, cabbage in a bed two feet by 10 feet and a one by 10 feet row of scallions, parsley, and radish.

In the introduction to How to Grow Your Own Vegetables," Professor C.L. Thomson from Amherst, Mass., gives reasons besides cost-cutting for families aiming for gardening.

The professor of vegetable crops, College of Agriculture, University of Massachusetts, put it this way:

"The food-producing garden is an ideal place for the entire fimily to get in tune with nature, to find spiritual as well as physical and mental fulfillment."

Hints for household

By United Press International

Some energy-saving tips for those toiling in the workshop, the yard, the garden —from Uncle Sam's Federal Energy Office:

—Maintain electrical tools in top operating shape, clean and properly lubricated.

—Keep cutting edges sharp. A sharp bit or saw cuts more quickly and uses less power. Oil on bits and cutting compounds on saws also reduces power required.

—Use hand tools in workshop.

—Remember to turn off shop lights, soldering irons, glue pots, and all bench heating devices as quickly as possible.

—When buying power tools, purchase the machine with the lowest adequate horse power for the work it will do.

—Save all workshop wood cuttings and burnable yard wood for the fireplace.

—Use hand lawn mowers, pruners and clippers in place of powered equipment in the yard and garden.

—Do not allow gasoline-powered yard equipment to idle for long periods. Turn them off and restart when ready to resume operation.

—Use a natural compost from your own yard cuttings. Manufactured fertilizers use petroleum source elements.

Azaleas

Blooming beauties

Visit a spring garden show and ask the first 10 people you see: "What are your favorite flowers in the show?" It's an odds on bet that most of them will answer, "Azaleas."

Azaleas and their cousins, Rhododendrons, are undoubtedly the showiest of our spring blooming plants in California. Some Azaleas have been showing occasinal color since last fall. These are primarily the Belgian Indicas, some of which break their first blooms when summer is scarecely over. After a flush of color in October and November, they taper off with spoted blooms until spring, when they launch into full bloom once again.

The gardener can make his selection of these Belgian Indicas any time during late winter and spring. some varieties that are typical of the breed are Blushing Bride, Albert and Elizabeth, Paul Schame, Sweet Sixteen, Dr. Bergman and Rose Queen.

Sun Azaleas, or Southern Indicas are extremely popular. They are typified by named varieties as Brilliant, Fielders White, George L. Taber, Phoenicia and Southern Charm. They have earned their common name by a willingness to grow in full sun along the coast. Don't be afraid to give them some shade in the hotter portions of the state. The only thing they really resent is reflected heat, so keep them away from south and west facing foundations and from other heat traps.

Another handsome addition to the garden is Kurume Azalea—Coral Bells, Wards Ruby and Hexe. They bloom a little later, so extend the Azalea season!

Rhododendrons are big brothers of the Azaleas and if you compare their blooms, you will easily note the similarities.

Be they Azaleas or Rhododendrons, they have the same liking for a rich, acid soil, plenty of moisture at the roots and overhead, too, and regular feeding. Ask a member of the California Association of Nurserymen to recommend good plant foods.

Plant in straight peat moss with the planting level 3-4 inches above grade. Remember, drainage is very important, they do not like soggy areas.

Auto maintenance hard to come by

DETROIT (UPI) — The gasoline shortage is keeping millions of Americans waiting in line for fuel and has not only increased the need for regular car maintenance but has made it harder to get —maintenance, that is.

Does your service station attendant still check the oil, battery and tire pressure? Many motorists are having to perform these tasks themselves now that gas stations are busy doing little else than pumping gasoline.

With spring at hand and gasoline still in tight supply, the need for a properly tuned car is more important than ever. Automotive experts agree that a car badly out of tune can waste gasoline —as much as 20 per cent of a tankful.

Most cars should be tuned once a year or every 10,000 to 12,000 miles depending on the type of driving — heavy stop-and-go or high-speed highway driving. But in between, there are many things the average motorists should be checking, especially if his service station is too busy.

Tune-up heads list

This includes such routine maintenance as checking engine oil and transmission fluids, battery and radiator water levels, belts and hoses, tire pressures and lubrication. These are relatively simple things your owner's manual will explain.

But there are a lot of jobs the average motorist still won't want to handle himself. Heading the list, whether it's spring or fall, is an engine tune-up. The tune-up remains one of the most important maintenance services performed on your car.

A major tune-up should begin with an instrument evaluation of the electrical systems, smog control devices, valve performance and the compression in each cyclinder. Many of the larger service centers now perform this evaluation with the help of computers.

The parts most often replaced in a major tune-up are: the contact set (points), spark plugs, condenser, rotor, PCV valve, air filter and fuel filter. If needed, the distributor cap should be replaced.

Keep plugs clean

The mechanic may also adjust the valves and clean the carburetor. After replacing the needed parts, a tune-up is completed by adjusting the carburetor and engine timing.

A minor tune-up usually includes inspecting, cleaning and readjusting the tune-up parts.

The main part of that tune-up just described involved the ignition system where the power of the battery is translated into the spark plug to ignite the fuel.

An ignition system that produces a healthy spark at each cylinder at exactly the right time helps get the maximum mileage out of each gallon of fuel and minimizes emissions. Boron Oil Co. engineers say one misfiring plug in an 8-cylinder engine can rob it of power and waste as much as one gallon of gasoline out of every 20 gallons.

Electronic system ready

While you're in for the tuneup, you might want to consider having one of those new electronic ignition systems installed if your car is a latemodel that doesn't have one as standard equipment. They replace the contact points and condenser and help deliver a more potent voltage to the spark plug.

The electronic ignition system is no better than a properly tuned, contact point ignition system, but it doesn't deteriorate like the point system does since there are no moving parts to wear out. A point system begins to wear out as soon as the parts begin moving and should be replaced at each tune-up.

Besides improving mileage, there are the added benefits of longer spark plug life, faster starts and fewer tuneups as a result of installing the electronic ignition. There are five or six on the market that can be installed by a mechanic and run between $70 and $150.

Here are some of the other things that should be done at this time of year:

—Check the operation of the air conditioning system.

—Check the exhaust system.

—Remove snow tires and rotate the entire set.

—Check the brakes, brake fluid and brake lines.

—Lubricate and change the oil and oil filter.

Visual checks should include inspections for leaks in the radiator, transmission, crankcase and hydraulic brake lines; frayed electrical connections; defective shock absorbers; abnormal wear in steering linkage and ball joints; worn or missing lubrication seals; worn or loose fan belts; and defective radiator and heater hoses.

Waiting hurts engine

The Automotive Information Council (AIC) warns that the fact that cars are being driven fewer miles during the gasoline shortage does not lessen —in fact, increases —the need to pay attention to routine maintenance.

Waiting in long lines for gasoline often means allowing the engine to idle for long periods, shortening the life of the engine unless it is properly maintained. Allowing the engine to idle for any sustained period causes fouling of the spark plugs and hastens the formation of harmful carbon deposits in the engine and sludge in the oil.

Contributing to the problem, says the AIC, is the fact that many motorists no longer have the extra gasoline for long trips or the traditional Sunday drive —either of which helps remove at least some of the carbon build-up.

Until automotive engineers come up with an alternative to the internal combustion engine that now powers our cars, only proper maintenance will make sure it delivers as much power and economy that present emission-control devices will allow.

Paint woes blamed on moisture

The average exterior paint job, which can cost from $500 to $1,000 or more depending on the size of your house, should last from three to five years.

If you notice blistering and peeling before then on wood siding surfaces or in areas under the eaves (soffits), it may not be the fault of the painter or the paint.

According to Alcan Aluminum Corporation, moisture may be the villain and it may come from a roof or gutter leak or water vapor escaping from inside the house.

In cold weather, especially, Alcan says, water vapor from inside the house pushes outward through the wood siding till it reaches the underside of the exterior paint. There it can condense and gradually force through the paint film to cause blisters and paint peeling.

What to do? Many buyers of new homes elect to have aluminum siding installed initially. Others, owners of existing homes in relatively good condition, have aluminum siding, accessories, gutters, leaders, soffits and fascia installed when repainting time arrives.

Alcan explains that aluminum siding has ventilating slots in the bottom of each panel to allow moisture to escape and to permit air circulation between the aluminum siding and your present siding or, in the case of a new home, the backing board.

Do-it-yourself

Homegrown weather prophets predict a hard winter when trees have heavy budding in spring, plentiful summer foliage, brilliant autumn colors, leaves hanging onto branches long after frost and new twigs that turn dark quickly.

Furthermore, you don't have to worry about chipping, peeling, or other conditions that plague many non-aluminum sidings when you have a good-grade of aluminum siding installed by an experienced local contractor. That's because the paint is baked on at the factory to specially treated aluminum under rigorously controlled conditions.

The result is not only a paint finish that should retain its fresh appearance for years and years with a minimum of maintenance to eliminate the high cost of periodic repainting, but a new freedom from worry that an otherwise good paint job will be marred by unsightly, moisture - caused blistering and peeling.

Now is time to cut cost in remodeling

In our push-button, electronic age, you can save time, space, wear and tear, but how can you save money? When costs are up and money is "tight" and labor not cheap, it is well worth considering how to get your money's worth.

In building, decorating or remodeling, as in anything else, the well-spent dollar will give the most pleasure, remind building specialists at Alcan Aluminum Corporation.

One of the advantages cited for aluminum siding, Alcan says, is the elimination of the need for periodic repainting for 30 years or more. The anticipated savings, however, are based on past painting bills, they point out. Undoubtedly, if present trends continue, savings in the future will be even greater because the cost of money, labor and painting materials will probably increase.

Not only owners of existing homes, says Alcan, but new home prospects should be aware of materials, appliances and equipment which can give years of trouble-free or maintenance-free operation without the expense of repairs or replacement. In addition to aluminum siding, better quality roofing, flooring, plumbing and heating systems as well as better-built dishwashers, ovens, washing machines, etc. can prove less costly in the long run.

All it takes is three glasses of milk.

No kidding: milk.

Because three 8-ounce glasses add up to half the protein you need each day. For energy. For growth. For repair of tissues.

And, best of all, for 25¢.

Compare that to what you're paying for the same amount of protein in other foods. Say, two hefty slices of pot roast. Or a serving of salmon steak. Or even four frankfurters.

In fact, just about the only protein you can get for less these days comes from certain dried peas, beans and nuts.

Now: does this mean we're saying don't eat meat or fish? No way—because they belong in any diet. (Except, of course, a vegetarian's!)

But what we are saying is this: if you're concerned about the rising price of protein, now you know a thrifty way to get it.

In fact, you can pour it on.

California Milk Advisory Board

P.S.

The more you know about protein and prices, the better. So:

1) When we say three glasses, we mean eight ounces per...or 24 ounces in all. And that price of 25¢ is based on the average price in California stores for one-half gallon. Which is 66.2¢. And you're welcome.

2) The recommended daily allowance of protein is 45 grams. It's endorsed by the Food and Drug Administration, no less. (And three glasses of milk, by the way, contain precisely 25.5 grams of protein: more than half the recommended amount.)

3) All protein measurements from "Nutrition and Physical Fitness," W.B. Saunders Co., ©1973. Very meaty book.

Milk has something for every body.™

Debate in Congress

Who's to safeguard citizens from misuse of criminal histories?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress is expected to enact strict safeguards this year to prevent the government from misusing hundreds of thousands of personal criminal histories stored in the burgeoning network of federal and state computers.

Recent hearings before House and Senate Judiciary subcommittees have made it plain, however, that there is little agreement on what the safeguards should be or who should be in charge.

Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., chairman of the Senate subcommittee on Constitutional Rights, insists on setting up a citizens board of control. He fears control might otherwise accrue to one man, Attorney General William B. Saxbe.

But FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley, scornful of anything like "civil review boards" that monitor police departments in some cities, wants any policy board to have strong representation by "police oriented" members.

One fact seldom mentioned in the subcommittee debates is that the National Criminal Information Center (NCIC) already is governed by a policy board in which the FBI is not even represented.

Kelley was on the 26-member board when he was chief of the Kansas City, Kan., police, but he had to resign when he became FBI director in July. The members are elected by the states and by a conference of NCIC users.

In a policy statement adopted in September, the board set down these principles:

—The NCIC and state systems hooked into it will carry only records of felonies and "serious" misdemeanors in its criminal histories, each backed by a fingerprint card. "Social" or "political" information, such as welfare status or voter registration, would be excluded.

—Records will be reviewed for error and updated to show later dispositions of arrests as they occur. Only the FBI and authorized state agencies can make entries directly, computer-to-computer.

—Participating state and local agencies plugged in to make inquires and receive records must strictly safeguard their terminals. There now are about 6,000 such participants, and the number is expected to grow to 45,000.

—No records will be made available for non-law enforcement use, such as checks on applicants for government jobs or for business or professional licenses unless specifically required by federal or state law.

—Any person has a right to check and correct his own record, so long as his identity is proved by a fingerprint card. This is to prevent an imposter from seeing a record.

These policies anticipated many of the issues that have come up in testimony before the subcommittees. But they do not touch on others that have come up, such as listing arrests that do not result in convictions.

Ervin has introduced a bill that would require "expunging" an arrest record if no conviction occurs within a certain time, and even "expunging" a conviction record after the subject has been punished.

The Justice Department has submitted a bill that adopts the same principle except that it would "seal" the records instead of wiping them out. They could be unsealed only by court order.

Saxbe told Ervin's subcommittee that knowledge of arrests is important to law enforcement agents, even when the disposition of the case is not known.

"Such data can identify a pattern of possible criminal activity which ultimately can lead to a conviction," Saxbe said.

The main concern in Congress is possible misuse of the crime data.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., has urged swift congressional action on the proposed safeguards to preserve personal freedoms in the "Buck Rogers" age sophisticated computer.

Man's best friend becoming expensive

PETOSKEY, Mich. (UPI) — Man's best friend, along with other problems of inflation, is getting expensive.

The City Council has directed City Attorney Mike Stroup to submit an amendment for the next meeting, April 1, and set up a minimum fine ordinance of $50 when dogs are caught running loose in the city.

The proposed amendment is a result of numerous complaints that dogs are permitted to run loose in the city and there is no set penalty against roaming dogs.

Bridge

Holdup proves legal, proper

By Oswald & James Jacoby

In spite of all the violent crime we read about today, the holdup at the bridge table is not only perfectly legal, but it has the approval of all successful players.

South analyzes the opening lead and notes that West has led the danger suit. Any other opening would have given South time to knock out both enemy aces and make sure of scoring at least nine tricks. As it is the defense can set up heart winners against him.

South can knock out the diamond ace and come to nine tricks with a successful club finesse, but he sees a much better play. He can make his contract if hearts break 4-3 in which case he will lose just two hearts and two aces or he can make it against any heart division unless both aces are in the hand with the long hearts.

Therefore, South should let West hold that first trick. West can do no better than continue the suit. South wins and then goes after diamonds. East takes his ace and can't find a heart to lead back and South has time to knock out the ace of spades. Eventually South tries the club finesse in an effort to score an overtrick.

King Hussein lands whopper in Florida

PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Vacationing King Hussein of Jordan went fishing Wednesday and landed a 180-pound grouper in the Atlantic off St. Lucie Inlet.

A spokesman said the king's party also caught a number of tilefish.

The king is expected to take things easy today. He is due to leave for London this weekend.

The doctor comments

Controlled epilepsy needn't be drawback

By Dr. Lawrence E. Lamb M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB— Last year I met a veteran I assume to be 25 years old (more or less). He lives in another state. I've never seen the young man. He is an epileptic. Having lost an only son in the service, I became interested in his case. I advised him last year that I thought the seizures could be controlled, if the proper medicine was taken. I heard from him again this Christmas. He says he is doing fine and has had no more seizures.

I am angered in this way. He has had two pretty good jobs, and would rather not have welfare. But, as soon as his employer finds out his condition, he is released from his job.

Would you please comment on epilepsy? What causes it? Can there be a good future for him? What kind of work would be more suitable? I imagine he will need training. I am sure God loves this young man and feel 1974 will be a better year for him, especially since his seizures have been controlled.

DEAR READER — Whether God loves this young man or not, it sounds like you do. He is most fortunate to have someone like you for a friend.

It depresses me to see anyone discriminated against because of a medical problem. Of course, there are circumstances where a person can't work at some jobs because of the danger to his own health or to others. But, there are so many job situations where this doesn't apply. Often the medically handicapped individual's greatest obstacle to a good life is the ignorance and prejudicial attitude of many members of our society.

Epilepsy can be a handicap, but it depends entirely upon how severe the problem is and how well controlled it is. You are right, most cases can be managed so that seizures are rare, if they occur at all. There are even new methods which show promising results of controlling or preventing a seizure by electrical means.

Let me say at once that many qualified people have had epilepsy. Both Julius Caesar and Alexander the Great had this problem. Need I say more? If this man's problem is well controlled, he could do any number of jobs, from manual labor to executive positions that he might be qualified for. He could enter the health field, law, teaching, farming or just about anything.

Because of the uncertainty of a seizure and the safety factors involved, it would be unwise to attempt to hold a job as a pilot or a bus driver, or similar occupation..

The cause of epilepsy in most cases is unknown. The mechanism is that a spot in the brain is capable of giving off large voltage discharges. When this happens, it is like having an electrical storm in the brain. The various regions of the brain are stimulated in an irregular fashion. This stimulates the cells that cause the arms, legs and other muscles to contract, causing the convulsion.

Sometimes this overactive spot is caused from a scar from a head injury. Rarely it may be associated with a brain tumor, but usually it occurs with no apparent reason.

But, whatever the cause, such attacks can be controlled or helped medically in most cases so these people can live a happy normal life. The rest is usually up to the individual and the problems created by society.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of the Progress-Bulletin, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on ulcers, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for "Ulcers" booklet.

Rising fuel prices cited

Consolidation of airlines sought

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Trans World Airlines today announced it will support a proposal by Pan American World Airways to explore consolidation of Trans-Atlantic service by the two lines in order to combat rising fuel prices.

F.C. Wiser, TWA president, said the line will file its formal support of the proposal with the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Pan American initiated the move by asking the CAB for authority to discuss with TWA consolidation of their services and revenues on the Atlantic.

However, in announcing that TWA would support the proposal, Wiser said that "this carrier action could provide only part of the solution to the problem of skyrocketing international fuel costs and other avenues of relief must continue to be explored.

"Unless more comprehensive solutions are developed the level and price of international air service to the traveling public will be placed in serious jeopardy," he said.

Museum's rehabilitation is delayed

MADRID (UPI) — The Prado Museum, home of one of the world's greatest art treasures, is fighting a two front war— against air pollution and against critics of its modernization plans.

Pollution threatens to damage the thousands of priceless paintings hung or stored in the museum. Plans for providing uncontaminated surroundings for the treasure have stirred strong reactions from urban conservationists.

Probably the country's top tourist attraction, the 153-year-old building stands in the most contaminated part of one of the world's most contaminated cities. Without equipment for air purification, temperature and humidity control, pollution has gradually eaten away at the works of Spanish, Flemish and Dutch masters.

Visitors in recent years have noted many paintings dulled and dirtied and some, such as Goya's "The Family of Carlos IV," Bosch's "The Garden of Delights" and El Greco's "Ressurection", flaking or scarred by alarming cracks.

"If something isn't done soon, our paintings are going to suffer irreparable damage," the Museum's director, Xavier Salas, warned as long as two years ago.

Monarchist ABC, the capital's biggest newspaper, has called the situation "anguishing." Its critic concluded: "The Prado is crumbling."

Last summer the government finally took action. In a session chaired by Chief of State Francisco Franco, the cabinet approved a 750 million peseta ($13 million) program to expand and modernize the Prado.

The plan called for a building just behind the main one. Its three underground floors would house air treatment equipment, restoration and storerooms, a car park, conference halls and a cafeteria.

On the top floor would be 14 new halls—it is said the Prado has more paintings in storage than on its walls—and the whole museum would get new lighting.

Only a few days after the announcement, a workers' wall went up around the area and neighbors waited for the sounds of the first bulldozers.

Clash with neighbors

They never came. Instead, there was loud protest from architects and conservationists who felt the new building would clash with its elegant neighbors —the neoclassic Royal Academy, which guards the purity of the Spanish language, and the church of Los Jeronimos, called the church of the aristocracy, where royalty used to wed.

"We must not risk losing forever one of the most beautiful and uniquely classic corners of Madrid," said the Catholic daily Ya. "A careful study must be made."

Other observers were less diplomatic.

"What they're planning just isn't good business, it's all just for show," Miguel Fisac, a leading architect, said. "They should concentrate on reconditioning the present building."

Writing in the weekly magazine Triunfo, Luis Carandell painted a grim picture of the Prado as a chaotic, bureaucratic, almost medieval institution and asked, "Do the art authorities want to save the Prado or just save face?"

Helping to find the answer, Madrid's mayor, himself an architect, has temporarily forbidden construction and ordered that models be built and the site photographed from every possible angle.

Calling the Prado "Spain's face to the outside world," he said he wanted to avoid another case like the Tower of Valencia building that looked beautiful on paper but later rose to block the view through a noble 18th Century arch.

Meanwhile, thousands of cars roar past the Prado daily, spewing fumes that eat through the famous paintings inside. The satirical humor magazine Hermano Lobo (Brother Wolf) ran a picture of Goya's "Naked Maja." She was wearing a gas mask.

Claremont Symphony will play on March 31

CLAREMONT — The Claremont Symphony Orchestra will present a concert Sunday, March 31 at 4 p.m. at Bridges Hall of Music on the Pomona College campus.

Gail Kubik, composer-in-residence at Scripps College, will be guest conductor. The program will feature his composition, "Pastorale and Spring Valley Overture."

Kubik has received many awards, including the Pulitzer Prize, given for his "Symphony Concertante" composed during his tenure as winner of the American Prix de Rome, the Jascha Heifetz Award for the "best violin concerto by an American composer," and two Gungenehim fellowships.

He has been composer-in-residence at Scripps since 1970.

Kubik has been invited to conduct the NBC Symphony, the London Philharmonic, and the Orchestra Radio Symphonique de Paris. His compositions appear on RCA Victor, Columbia, and Contemporary recordings.

The concert program also will include Handel's "Water Music'', Ravel's "Mother Goose Suite," and Mozart's "Concerto for Flute, Harp, and Orchestra," with Winifred Norton on flute, and Elizabeth Turrell on harp.

No admission is charged.

Poly jazz event set next month

POMONA — The second annual Cal Poly Jazz Festival will be held April 6 from noon to 6 p.m. at the University Theater.

Saxophonist Teddy Edwards will appear with the Cal Poly Jazz Band as a climax to the festival which will feature high school and college bands from throughout the Los Angeles metropolitan area.

Edwards will also conduct a jazz workshop from 4 to 6 p.m. at the festival.

General admission to the musical affair is $2 and student admission is $1.

Pair to offer theater pieces

CLAREMONT — Jan Larson and Jennifer Alysoun Savidge, recent graduates of Pomona College, will present an evening of theater pieces Sunday and Monday at 8:15 p.m.

The affair is a presentation of the Pomona College Theater, and will be held in the Smudge Basement of Edmunds Union.

Parking is available behind Holmes Hall.

Women bus drivers proving themselves

BERLIN (UPI) — West Berlin's women bus drivers have proved themselves so good that the city transportation company is seeking more of them.

It hired two women as drivers last November and now has 13 out of a force of 4,219.

There are 63 female conductors out of a force of 1,300.

Supremes are Orange Show stars

SAN BERNARDINO — The Supremes, the only female group in musical history to produce seven gold records, will perform from the stage of Swing Auditorium at 2:30 and 7:30 p.m. Sunday, the final day of the 59th National Orange Show.

The current members of the group are Mary Wilson, Scherrie Payne and Cindy Birdsong.

Miss Wilson is a veteran of the original Supremes which also included Diana Ross and Florence Ballard. Miss Payne, younger sister of vocalist Freda Payne, is the newest member of the group. She came to the Supremes from the Glass House, an Invictus Records group.

Miss Birdsong replaced Florance Ballard in 1967. In May of 1970 she married, something no other active Supreme had ever done. She took a maternity leave of absence two years later, but rejoined the group.

TV notes

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Broadcasting Company's estimate of the number of U.S. households with color television sets as of Jan. 1 was 44,950,000, or 67.3 per cent of total video homes. The increase over the January, 1943 figure was put at 5½ million sets.

CBS will have a one-hour drama titled "The First Woman President" at 9:30 p.m. April 14. It is the story of the second Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, who is supposed to have assummed unofficially many of President Wilson's duties after his stroke in September, 1919. Eva Marie Saint and Richard Basehart have the leading roles.

ABC has renewed the "Marcus Welby, M.D." series, starring Robert Young in the title role, for a sixth year.

The newly completed Grand Ole Opry house in Nashville, Tenn., will be the locale of a television special for the first time on April 26 when singer Johnny Cash headlines a cast of country music stars. NBC will air the one-hour program, "Country Comes Home," at 10 p.m.

Tapestries make a big comeback

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tapestry, which has had its ups and downs of popularity during its 3,500-year history, is enjoying a comeback in museums, offices and homes as the result of Americans' new fascination with handcrafts.

The monumental medieval tapestry show currently at the Metropolitan Museum, organized in cooperation with the National Museums of France, and the exhibition of works designed by the contemporary Spanish artist, Josef Grau-Garriga, at the Los Angeles County Museum, underscore the coast-to-coast passion for wool on the wall.

Good antique tapestries generally carry five figure pricetags and are too big for practical use by even those collectors who can afford them. Modern tapestries, however, cost no more than handloomed Oriental rugs and can be commissioned to fit any wallspace.

"There's a tremendous interest in contemporary tapestries as there is in all handwork, especially for corporate offices and modern homes where wall hangings soften the hard effect of construction materials," said Lee Naiman of Tapestry Associates, a Manhattan firm which sells tapestries by American, European and Canadian designers.

"Unlike paintings, which reflect light, tapestries absorb light, are warm and invite touch. People love them as art, but they also are good investments as is any good art today."

Aubusson technique

Most contemporary tapestries are woven by the Aubusson technique, which was perfected in France in the 14th Century, and are priced from $500 to $5,000 and up depending on size and the reputation of the artist. By U.S. and French law, the number of copies of any tapestry design must be limited to six plus two artist's proofs to qualify as an original work of art.

Medieval tapestries, noted for bold design and arresting color, were created by anonymous artists, while tapestries of the 17th to 19th Centuries often were mere characterless copies of paintings or cartoons (design sketches) by famous artists. It was not until the 1920s that French artist Jean Lurcat made tapestry a truly individualistic medium for artists, with emphasis on rougher textures and brilliant colors.

Lurcat and a group of his friends revived the art of tapestry at Aubusson, the traditional French looming capital, at the behest of the French government in the late 1930s. Now, Aubusson weavers turn out some 1,000 tapestries annually, concentrating on designs by stellar artists—Louise Nevelson, Robert Motherwell, Frank Stella, Helen Frankenthaler, Alexander Calder, Jean Arp, and Man Ray.

Now, there are tapestry studios in virtually every Western country where skilled weavers turn out about a square yard of tapestry a month, working under the direction of the artists. The Japanese are the most recent entry in the field. There are some artists who weave their own arrases, but they are rare.

Adele Siegel, who arranged the Grau-Garriga exhibition and was the first New York dealer to specialize in tapestries at her Arras Gallary since 1970, is especially drawn to avant-garde artists who dare to combine jute, nylon, cotton, silk, metal and wood with wool. Experimentation in high relief has given tapestry the third dimension of depth, triggering a logical trend toward moving soft construction tapestries off the wall and into the middle of the room.

Non-objectively speaking

"Less painterly qualities are apparent in the newer works," Mrs. Siegel observed. "The techniques available to the artist in expressing himself seem boundless, once the basics are mastered. The medium is beginning to speak, but there is still a lot of groping."

The designs of Lurcat and his disciples mainly were figural, but since the Hungarian painter Victor Vaserely turned to tapestry about 1950, there has been an overwhelming emphasis on non-objective design. Vaserely, France's Sonia Delaunay and Brazil's Jean Gillon work in geometrics, America's June Wayne and Sylvia Carewe and France's Andre Vilar in abstractions, and Poland's Teresa Muszynka, Yugoslavia's Jagoda Buic and Grau-Garriga in freeform creations.

"Grau-Garriga's tapestries are all one-of-a-kind, since you couldn't possibly reproduce them in multiplicity," Mrs. Siegel said. "His tapestries are shaggy, ropy and have holes in them, and are removed stylistically from medieval tapestries by centuries, but they are created on looms similar to those used by medieval weavers."

Mrs. Siegel said Grau-Garriga's tapestries have tripled in price since she began exhibiting him in 1971. She advises the would-be tapestry collector with a small budget to buy small pieces first and spend a lot of time "educating the eye by looking, looking, looking" because there are not many books on contemporary tapestry.

Tickets may be purchased for the affair.

Destiny of film in hands of child

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Rarely does the future of a multimillion dollar enterprise depend on the lovability of a 9-year-old freckled face girl, but such is the case of a new television movie and possible series.

The gamblers are Mike Landon (former star of "Bonanza"), producer Ed Friendly ("Laugh-In") and NBC, a television network.

The girl in question is Melissa Gilbert, a thoroughly adorable child with wide-set eyes, impertinent nose, the aforementioned freckles and a free, open spirit which is utterly captivating off-screen.

"Little House on the Prairie," is the title of the movie cum series, dramatization of the famed Laura Ingalls Wilder books.

Friendly and little Melissa sat together to sip Shirley Temple cocktails one day recently.

"We're going with a proven actor in Mike," Friendly said, "and the books have been bestsellers for 40 years. So a great deal of the future of this product depends on how audiences react to Melissa."

The little girl nodded solemnly.

"Little House on the Prairie" will air as a two-hour movie "March 30. Thereafter the satchems at NBC will decide whether to go into weekly production.

What does Melissa, who has done some 30 television commercials, think of becoming a dramatic actress?

"Well," she said, "acting's fun because you don't have to be plain old every day Melissa Gilbert. You can pretend to be someone else instead.

"In the movie I get to pretend I'm a little girl named Laura. She's the lady who wrote the books. And I'm supposed to be her when she was 9 years old. She was lucky because out on the prairie they had horses and cows and rabbits and dogs and everything.

"I love animals as much as she did. Except skunks. I don't think I could pretend to like skunks."

L. M. Boyd

How to make $1 million

Thought the science boys already had invented an effective hair remover for women. But this lady subscriber says nay, there's no such thing. She claims that genius who learns how to control human hair will become a multimillionaire in a matter of moments. Don't doubt it. By control, she means remove it from hairy girls, grow it on balding men.

World's military budget doubles every 15 years.

Town of Santa Claus, Ind., once officially outlawed "the act of gossiping about one's neighbors." Didn't work.

As to what make of auto Peter Falk drives in "Columbo," as now informed by a reliable source it's a studio prop put together with car parts from numerous different makes.

Math puzzle

Try this one on your mathematical friends: There was a company of men with seven-ninths of the men in the age group 20 to 30 years; two thirds of the men were under 20 years of age; there were 20 men over age 30. How many men were in that entire company?

Just about half of those citizens over age 60 in Japan belong to some sort of Senior Citizen social club. Pretty high proportion of club joiners, is it not? Much compulsory retirement there comes at age 55.

Goliath stood 9-feet-9 inches tall. His coat of mail weighed 180 pounds. His spears weighed almost but not quite 22 pounds each. A Biblical scholar told me that.

As to how many men were in that company described in the math puzzle above, figure 270.

Birth control

Consider those couples who practice birth control because they don't want any more children at all. Within five years, every third such couple has a child, anyway. As for those couples who say they want children later, but not now, one out of every four of those particular pairs has a child way ahead of schedule.

Why is it so few of the bird-dog boys put bells on their dogs? Extensive studies prove the tinkling of the bells doesn't spook the wild birds. When the dog is out of sight, the bell reports its whereabouts. And when the bell stops, the hunter knows the dog is on point. Gunners who work with belled dogs say it's a finer fancier sport that way.

Israeli takes a shot at '30s gangster era

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Hollywood has been worrying about runaway productions—U. S. companies shooting all over the world except here. Now there's a new twist—a run-to-production. An Israeli production company is shooting a movie here.

Menahem Golan is directing "Lepke," the story of Louise Buchalter, the Murder, Inc., badman of the '30s. It stars Tony Curtis as Lepke, with Anjanette Comer and a fine supporting cast.

They were shooting in downtown Los Angeles in the Skid Row section. They had taken over a rundown, empty theater, the Regent, for a key scene.

It was in a neighborhood of pawn shops, quick lunch stands and cut-rate shoe stores. A few doors away two L.A. cops were relieving an aged wino of his bottle.

Outside the theater, there were a flock of extras in '30s outfits—all black and menacing—playing hoods. They had cornered Lepke in the theater, where he was watching a Jimmy Cagney movie.

Golan explained that he was going to try something new in the scene. The Cagney movie on the screen would be black and white. One of Lepke's boys, on the stage in front of the screen, would be gunned down. His red blood would splash up on Cagney's black-and-white face. Golan was excited about it.

It's his first U.S. film. He's a sabra, a native Israeli, and spent his childhood in Tiberias, near the Sea of Galilee. That may sound exotic and romantic and away-from-it-all, but he says he spent most of his childhood in the local movie house, watching American westerns and gangster pictures.

"I always loved lovies," he says, "and always wanted to make movies. And I dreamed of someday going to Hollywood."

He became one of Israel's top directors, with some 25 pictures to his credit. Most were shot in Israel, but he did a few in Norway, Germany, England. This past year, he made "Kazablan," which did so well around the world that it gave him the clout he needed so he could come to Hollywood.

He says he decided the time had come to make a movie here. But he realized he didn't know enough about current American mores to make a modern American film.

"To do a movie about a country at the moment," he says, "you must be a resident of that country. That's why all the movies about Israel—'Cast a Giant Shadow' and 'Judith' and the others, even 'Exodus'—have been bad. The American directors romanticized too much, were not realistic enough."

Realizing that, he elected to do a period piece when he came here. He says he'd seen enough gangster movies of the '30s, over the years, so he was familiar with the period and its peculiarities. Also, he wanted to make a commercial film, which would give him a reputation so he could do more.

So he picked the "Lepke" theme. Surprisingly, there has never been a movie on "Lepke." It took a foreigner to do it.

Man drives off cliff, suffers broken arm, rib

LAGUNA BEACH (UPI) — A 23-year-old man, who drove his Volkswagen off a 200-foot cliff, suffered only a broken arm and rib, police said Wednesday.

Victor Gonzales also suffered many cuts when his car landed in the rocky surf off Crescent Bay Point. He was reported in good condition at Orange County Medical Center.

Police said they saw Gonzales' car idling at the edge of the cliff. When they approached he stepped on the gas and drove over the edge. They did not say why.

A 4-cylinder CAPRI

32.4 M.P.G

Highway test through Arizona and California, supervised by General Environments Corporation, a Capri with standard engine and transmission delivered the kind of gas mileage you'd like to get.

Driven by non-professional drivers, never exceeding 50 mph. You yourself might actually average less, or for that matter, more! Because mileage varies according to maintenance, equipment, total weight, driving habits and road conditions. And no two drivers, or even cars, are exactly the same. See what kind of mileage you can get.
